

Federation Is Planning New Drive to End CIO Factions

Membership Battle Seen In Mine and Clothing Fields

LEWIS ALSO BUSY Seeking More Recruits And Consolidation Of Ranks

Washington—(U)—American Federation of Labor leaders talked today of starting a "divide and conquer" campaign against the CIO, now that peace negotiations in organized labor's factional war have collapsed.

John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization prepared at the same time to enroll more recruits and consolidate its ranks.

The federation's first step, informed persons said, might be an attempt to get the International Ladies Garment Workers to leave the CIO and rejoin the A. F. of L.

Then the federation may expel the United Mine Workers and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers at the executive council's Miami meeting next month, and start a membership battle in the coal fields and clothing factories.

The United Cigar Workers and the Progressive Miners of America would lead the fight, officials said, but the federation would back those unions with funds and organizers.

Appeal to Workers

At the federation's Denver convention last fall, President William Green appealed to the rank and file of the CIO unions in both coal fields and clothing mills to overthrow their leaders and return to the A. F. of L. fold.

Lewis talked chiefly of concentrating their fire on the strongest and longest-established CIO unions—the source of the most of the CIO's income.

Lewis' forces, on the other hand, discussed a call for an early national convention and creation of more city, state and industrial councils.

Convention talk envisioned transformation of the CIO from a loose committee of union leaders into a federation of unions organized along the general lines of the A. F. of L.

Negotiations Fail

Peace negotiations came to an end yesterday afternoon when the CIO committee suggested there was no point in meeting any longer.

The A. F. of L. committee agreed, adding that the federation had nothing more to offer.

The negotiations, first suggested by Lewis, started Oct. 25 and continued intermittently. At one time, the joint committee turned the negotiations over to Lewis and Green.

The two generals found, however, they could make no more progress than had their lieutenants. Each side had demanded what the other said it regarded as complete surrender.

The CIO's original peace proposal—never much modified—called for the A. F. of L. to take in all the CIO unions along with the CIO itself as a semi-independent division. The CIO was to continue its program along its present lines.

Federation Plans

The federation's proposal called for abolition of the CIO and for the 12 CIO unions that once belonged to the federation to return. The other 20 CIO unions, the A. F. of L. said, should be divided among existing federation unions or given A. F. of L. charters if no A. F. of L. union wanted their members.

Philip Murray of the CIO said the A. F. of L. committee had demonstrated its inability to make a settlement by insisting that all disputed issues must be settled by individual unions.

"The onus for the deadlock," Murray said, "must be on the A. F. of L."

The federation committee blamed Lewis, declaring in a statement, the A. F. of L. offer was so "honorable, fair and equitable" that the CIO committee would have accepted it except for Lewis' veto.

Stimson Attacks Proposed National Referendum on War

New York—(U)—Former Secretary Henry L. Stimson, who guided the state department in the critical Japanese relations of 1931-33, defended today the historic exercise of "war-making power" by congress on recommendation of the president.

He struck out vigorously at advocates of a constitutional amendment which would require majority approval in a nationwide referendum before any war could be declared except in event of an actual invasion of the country and "attack upon its citizens residing therein."

Stimson, in a letter to the New York Times, expressed fear "the mere bringing forward" of the proposal—it has been forced up by petition for consideration in congress in January—"cannot but seriously affect our national position in the world today."

Hearing Opened on Assets of Bankrupt Buckman Concern

Third Special Counsel Named to Help State Attorneys

Madison—(U)—Miles C. Riley, special master, opened hearing in federal court today to determine the assets of the bankrupt B. E. Buckman and company, Madison investment firm, which is involved in a state investigation.

Bruno V. Bitker, Milwaukee, a third special counsel appointed by Governor LaFollette to assist state attorneys, Lawrence Brody, LaCrosse, and William Spohn, Madison, questioned officers of the Buckman company about their affiliations with concerns whose stocks they promoted.

President B. E. Buckman, Vice President L. C. George and Secretary E. C. Holt testified they had resigned their connections with Continental Public Service company, Interstate Public Service company, Central West Water and Power company, Eureka Utilities company and Interstate Telephone company.

Meanwhile the governor's office announced that the state will intervene in federal court proceedings at Little Rock, Ark., involving reorganization of Buckman subsidiary companies.

Trustees Named

Permanent trustees were to be appointed at Little Rock Dec. 27 but Bitker arranged an adjournment until Jan. 17. The executive office said state counsel wishes to determine whether the reorganization proceedings "were instituted in good faith."

The bankruptcy hearing before Riley was concerned only with preliminary matters. Riley ordered an adjournment to Jan. 25 with a ruling that the inquiry will extend to all companies with which the Buckman firm was affiliated.

A. W. Prehn, and E. E. Hohman, Wausau, appeared as attorneys for Marathon county persons, who brought the bankruptcy action as purchasers of stocks promoted by the Buckman company.

Carl N. Hill, Madison attorney, represented the Buckman officers. He said the officials were not ready to proceed because company records are in the possession of the public service commission and state prosecutors.

The secret John Doe investigation started by state counsel to determine whether any criminal actions will be instituted, was to be resumed late today.

Los Angeles—(U)—Barbara Stanwyck must appear in court as a result of the complaint of her former husband, Frank Fay, that the only access he has to their 5-year-old adopted son is by telephone calls—once at the rate of $100 for a "Hello, daddy."

After Fay testified Miss Stanwyck barred him from seeing the boy in violation of a divorce settlement, Judge Goodwin Knight ordered the actress before the court next Tuesday.

Runkel said there would be no inquest.

Teruel Falls Into Hands of Loyalist Army

Government Wins First Major Victory Since Last June

BATTLE NOT ENDED

Bitter Fighting Continues Around Captured City

Madrid, Franco-Spanish Border—(U)—The capture today of strategic Teruel after a week of fierce siege fighting gave the Spanish government its first important civil war victory since last June's offensive west of Madrid.

Confirmation of the fall of Teruel, insurgent strong point at the southernmost tip of the Aragon front, came from both insurgent and government headquarters, aiding with reports of terrific casualties.

The battle, regarded as the first major test of the government's armed strength since insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco concentrated his forces in the Aragon, was still raging around the fallen city. The insurgents, at the latest report, recaptured a fortified position at Los Morrones west of Teruel.

"The only other notable government victory in the war was the disastrous rout of an insurgent army, composed largely of Italians on the Guadalajara front last March. This army seemed on the verge of capturing Madrid when a combination of weather, warplanes and stiffened government resistance completely altered the situation."

Mud Halts Advance

(The insurgent army, with much mechanized and motorized equipment, was "tied to the road" by mud after a rapid advance into government territory near Brihuega. Government war planes bombed and strafed the column and insurgent troops fled in disorganized retreat. (The government, throughout a large part of the war, has fought defensively.)

Official government dispatches—following an earlier premature announcement that the strategic provincial capital had been occupied—indicated part of the old quarter known as "The City of Rocks" remained in insurgent hands.

Only isolated bands of the insurgent garrison still were resisting, Franco's officers acknowledged. They said Salamanca headquarters considered the city, which had been spearhead of Franco's lower Aragon line, as lost.

Miller said Brown was jealous of his wife.

Brown was shot in the chest but was expected to recover.

Kellogg Rites Will be Held In Minnesota

Body to be Taken From St. Paul to Washington for Burial

NOTED PEACE WORKER

Former Cabinet Member, World Court Judge Dies in St. Paul

St. Paul—(U)—Minnesota and the nation today mourned the death of Frank B. Kellogg, son of pioneer parents who raised himself to the heights of world statesmanship.

The former secretary of state and world court judge was stricken with cerebral thrombosis early last month, and last Saturday developed the bronchial pneumonia which, Dr. J. A. Lepak, his physician, said, caused his death last night. Today would have been his eighty-first birthday anniversary.

With him at the end were Mrs. Kellogg, Dr. Lepak, household servants, and relatives. Besides Mrs. Kellogg, survivors include Mrs. Burnham Harris, and Mrs. Robert D. Clark, nieces, both of St. Paul; a sister, Mrs. Jean K. Austin and her daughter, Mrs. Seabury Stanton, both of New Bedford, Mass., and another niece, Mrs. John Bradshaw of Madison, N. J.

Awarded Nobel Prize

Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg had no children. During his long career in public life, Kellogg served as United States senator from Minnesota, ambassador to the court of St. James, secretary of state, and judge of the world court. President Calvin Coolidge named him to represent the United States at the court of St. James, and also to the secretary of state's post.

It was while he was secretary of state that he joined Aristide Briand and France in authorship of the peace pact for which he was awarded the Nobel Peace prize in 1929.

He retired from the world court in 1935, after five years of service, and returned to his private law practice here.

News of Mr. Kellogg's death was received with deep regret in England, where the British press had given him the name of "the silent diplomat" and the "friendly ambassador" during his service in London. In France, a spokesman for the French foreign office called him as "one of the world's great."

Mrs. Kellogg announced funeral services would be held Thursday in the Church of St. John the Evangelist here. The body then will be sent to Washington for burial in the National Cathedral.

Autopsy Ordered In Death of Noted Screen Comedian

Officials Trying to Determine if Healy Died From Fight Effects

Los Angeles—(U)—Police said they would drop further investigation of a mysterious fist fight involving Ted Healy after an autopsy indicated today that the film comedian died of natural causes. Death was originally ascribed to a heart attack.

Los Angeles—(U)—An autopsy was ordered today to determine whether Ted Healy, stage and screen comedian, died from the effects of a fist fight which, police were told, climaxed a gay celebration of the birth of his son.

Although Healy's death was announced by his studio as due to a heart attack in his Westwood home, police said they learned he was engaged in a fight Sunday night outside a popular Hollywood night club, the Trocadero, with an unknown adversary.

Coroner Frank Nance claimed Healy's body from an undertaker yesterday after Dr. Wyant Lamont, who attended Healy, refused to sign a certificate of death from natural causes.

Healy, who was 41, was credited with originating the "stooge" school of comedy—a routine in which he and several teammates traded clouts on the head accompanied by hollow off-stage sounds and then sank, blank-eyed, to the floor.

Celebrated Son's Birth

Detectives Joseph Filkas and George Baker reported they learned from friends of Healy that he went to the night club to celebrate the birth last Friday night of a son. His wife, still in University hospital, Culver City, was informed last night of his death.

Healy had called the birth of a son the greatest excitement in his life.

His friends said they took him home after the celebration, and that he gave a somewhat incoherent story of engaging in an argument and a fight. Healy told them he went to a Hollywood hotel after the fight and was treated for his injuries. He then motored to a Beverly Hills hotel, from where the friends took him home.

Major Measures Await Regular Congress Term

Senate Passes Housing Bill Before Adjournment

BALLOT IS 66 TO 4

None of President's Proposals Actually Made Law

Washington—(U)—Members of congress left the administration's special session program up in the air today and began a 12-day Christmas vacation that will defer enactment of major legislation until the new year.

The sudden adjournment at dusk yesterday, after the senate passed the housing bill, 66 to 4, found none of President Roosevelt's recommendations actually written into law.

Administration leaders, however, contended the session had served a valuable purpose in finishing preliminary work on farm, housing and other administration measures. Final approval of these will be sought at the regular session convening Jan. 3.

Democratic Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) asserted the session had clipped from six weeks to two months off the regular 1938 session. The Republican leader, Senator McNary of Oregon, predicted the regular session would end in May "if the president doesn't keep sending new recommendations to congress."

Call Session Failure

McNary, however, asserted the special session was a failure and that it "did not in any way carry out the program of the president."

Leaders originally had intended to wind up the five-week session today so that a joint conference committee could adjust differences in the house and senate housing bills before adjournment. Some of the men appointed to the committee, however, were among the many members who already had gone home, necessitating postponement of final action until January.

Farm legislation, key item on the administration program, is in the same status as the housing legislation. Crop control bills passed both houses, and now are before a conference committee which will meet late next week.

Expects Quick Action

Barkley predicted both the farm and housing measures would be sent to the White House almost immediately after the regular session convenes.

Another Roosevelt recommendation—establishment of wage and hour standards—was sailed away in the house labor committee because of a house vote to recommit it "for further study." That revolt, led by southern Democrats and northern Republicans, was the greatest legislative setback for the administration since the court bill was sidetracked last summer.

Recommitment usually is tantamount to killing a measure, but pressed the hope it might be resurrected by a new presidential request for enactment.

Debate "Cleared Air"

Chairman O'Connor (D-N.Y.) of the house rules committee asserted that debate on the bill had "cleared the air."

"This may well be of benefit," he said, "in working out a bill in the regular session which will be acceptable to a majority of the members."

Roosevelt Is Firm For Less Spending

Says Congress 'Must Accept Full Responsibility' For Added Funds

Washington—(U)—President Roosevelt reaffirmed his intention to cut federal spending today and asserted that congress and its Democratic majority "must accept full responsibility" if his budget estimates are exceeded.

In a letter to Chairman Cartledge (D-Okla.) of the house roads committee, Mr. Roosevelt asserted:

"The congress has a perfect right constitutionally to exceed the budget, but if the budget is exceeded, obviously the congress must accept full responsibility, and obviously, the Democratic members, which have such a large majority in the congress, must equally accept the full responsibility."

The president added that if legislation were guided by the demands of counties for federal funds, "there would not be any Democratic party and there would not be any solvent government after a few years."

The letter, made public by Cartledge, endorsed again a reduction in aid expenditures as a means of helping to balance the budget.

In the absence of action before the first of the new calendar year, which the president had recommended, the bureau of public roads went ahead with arrangements for appropriation $214,000,000 to states for highway improvements. Adjournment of the special session of congress left no other course since existing law requires that the allotment be made by Jan. 1.

Alleged Agitators Are Arrested in Japanese Drive

Tokio Police See Plot for 'General Revolution' Based on Communism

Tokio—(AP)—Police declared today their secret arrest of 370 suspected agitators had barred activities for a "general revolution based on communism."

A member of parliament and several former university professors were held on suspicion of conspiring in communist and pacifist movements. They were rounded up in a nationwide series of raids at dawn last Wednesday.

"The main point of their movement apparently was to lead a general revolution based on communism," the metropolitan police board said.

"Since the outbreak of the Chinese incident they have used every opportunity to spread anti-war propaganda throughout the nation."

"Therefore the authorities have been forced to arrest those who violated the peace preservation law, disrupted the private property system and sought to change the state structure."

Many citizens appeared stunned by the arrests, and there was widespread belief they were made to deflect the nation's attention from the strained international relations.

Ordinarily, they said, such a campaign would have been kept secret for months.

Dissolve 3 Parties
Police declared three organizations—the labor-farmer party, the proletarian party and the all Japan council of labor farmer unions—directed the alleged movements.

The home ministry immediately ordered dissolution of the three parties as disturbers of the peace. Police said they confiscated radical literature, documents and information on leftist movements.

They said seized documents showed a program of opposition to fascism and war; cooperation in world-wide social democratic movements; instruction to shape campaigns to conditions in various nations, and employment of legal methods for fostering their activities wherever possible.

An effect of the last measure, they said, were proletarian demands for regular labor wages for soldiers in the Chinese campaign, attempts to force commodity prices up and efforts to influence Japan's international diplomacy.

Kanji Kato, a member of parliament and chairman of the executive committee of the proletarian party, was one of those arrested.

The largest group, 180 persons, was arrested in Tokyo.

Only two women were known to have been arrested. They were Baroness Shizue Ishimoto, widely known in the United States, and Taiko Hirabayashi, a writer.

The Baroness, a graduate of the Peers' school, is a director and editor of the Japanese Women's Encyclopedia.

Judge Right in Dismissing Jury, Lawrence States

Doesn't Believe Geiger Deserves Censure for His Decision

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—Is a federal judge every time he renders a decision not to the liking of the department of justice, to be publicly accused by the administration of dereliction of duty and virtually threatened by impeachment proceedings?

Such a practice might very readily destroy the independence of the judiciary and do much more harm to the cause of justice than even was possible through the president's plan last spring to "reorganize" the judiciary by means of punitive legislation directed at judges who did not bow to the will of the administration.

The question arises now because of the extraordinary course followed by Assistant Attorney General Jackson, head of the anti-trust division, in carrying to the public press his controversy with Judge Geiger of Milwaukee. The jurist declined to allow the grand jury proceedings to be tampered with by the agents of the department of justice and discharged the jury.

His action was in line with steps he had taken in previous cases and goes to the heart of the problem of fairness and justice, the question being whether the department of justice can threaten criminal proceedings and use the club of criminal indictments to compel or coerce citizens to sign a civil decree covering matters over which the federal government claims jurisdiction.

Judge Geiger courageously refused to allow the grand jury proceedings to be interfered with, and now a formal letter has gone from the department of justice to the house judiciary committee attempting to imply that the Milwaukee judge deserves censure or impeachment. The letter was given to the press on the eve of its delivery to Chairman Sumners, an unusual procedure.

Here is an instance in which a federal judge applied the law and the custom of federal practice and he conscientiously sees it and the department of justice, dissatisfied with his ruling, in effect warns all other federal judges that, unless they do the bidding of government attorneys, they must expect to be threatened with impeachment.

How About Attorneys?
It is doubtful whether Chairman Sumners will allow his committee to be used to undermine confidence in the judiciary, and it would not be surprising if, when all the facts are gathered, there were reason to ask whether the government attorneys themselves were not guilty of grave improprieties.

The matter before the court concerned the alleged statement that the automobile factories and their finance company affiliates in some way coerced dealers into using certain installment finance plans covering the sales of automobiles on time payments. Abuses there are no doubt in this field, but, like other questions of unfair competition and fair trade practice, they are subjects either for Federal Trade Commission inquiry or for civil suits under the anti-trust statutes. It is unthinkable that the threat of indictments could be used by any government attorneys to secure compliance with civil consent decrees.

If any individuals are guilty of criminal practices, they should be prosecuted to the limit and there should be no deals or negotiations whereby acceptance of a consent decree would free them from such prosecution.

That there was coercion is evident from a letter signed by Henry M. Hogan, assistant general counsel of General Motors corporation, and introduced into the court record last week in Milwaukee, in which he wrote to Assistant Attorney General Jackson under date of Dec. 6:

"As we already have explained to you, even under the threat of criminal proceedings we prefer to have our rights and obligations determined in an atmosphere free from coercion, by some authority constituted by law to carefully try on the merits the questions (1) whether the finance business is subject to federal regulation, and if so, what are the appropriate rules and limitations; and (2) whether there have been any violations thereof. As you are well aware, the subject is already regulated by statutes in 18 states, and the conflict between state and federal jurisdiction should be clarified in order to insure uniformity of obligation and make compliance reasonably effective."

The whole case is one on which the light of public inquiry should be thrown. The department of justice puts its criminal case before a grand jury in Milwaukee last month and then received representatives from the Ford, Chrysler and General Motors companies and their finance company affiliates to discuss the terms of a consent decree—a civil action.

First Approach
It is true that the first approach was made on the initiative of one of the motor car companies' lawyers, but it also truth that the department convoked conferences thereafter and discussed and urged the consent decree. The attorneys for the finance companies told Judge Geiger they were given to understand that, if they signed the consent decree, there would be no criminal indictments. The government representative in Milwaukee denied this, but one wonders why for six weeks the department of justice and the attorneys would be conferring if the motor car officials were going to be subject to criminal prosecutions anyway. Usually a consent decree ends litigation, and in this instance no civil suits had been filed.

It is well within the right of the department to attempt, by consent decree or by civil suit and then settlement through consent decree, to define economic issues which are causing friction or hardship to groups affected. But the threat of criminal indictments was apparently used and the negotiators from the department of justice were attempting evidently to bargain with the auto men on the theory that the department could control the actions or judgments of the grand jury—a circumstance that would make a mockery of justice if permitted. Hence, Judge Geiger was right in dismissing the grand jury and asking the government in effect to start fresh on its criminal or civil suit without trying secure compliance with civil consent decrees.

If any individuals are guilty of criminal practices, they should be prosecuted to the limit and there should be no deals or negotiations whereby acceptance of a consent decree would free them from such prosecution.

Relief Costs in 15 Per Cent Rise During November

State Welfare Department Expects Further Increases

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Despite increased WPA employment and benefits from the state unemployment insurance system, direct relief rolls in Wisconsin are growing heavier and expenditures larger, the department of public welfare, state government relief agency, reported here this week.

It was estimated that expenditures throughout the state and number of relief recipients during November jumped fully 15 per cent over the month of October, while it is probable that there will be a further increase when the reports of December relief expenditures are received from the counties.

Reason for the increases were given as the seasonal change, and the recent industrial recession which precipitated lay-offs, particularly in the urban industrial centers.

During November 36,500 Wisconsin persons were receiving direct relief, in contrast with a total of 31,708 during October, the public welfare department reports.

While the heavier relief burdens are particularly noticeable in the poorer sections of northern Wisconsin, Fox River Valley counties have also experienced increased direct relief expenditures, it was pointed out.

Brown county, for example, paid out $14,800 to 642 relief clients in November compared with $10,500 to only 504 in October. Similarly Outagamie county jumped from $9,200 for 375 cases in October to $12,200 for 469 cases in November.

In a typical rural county in the central section of the state, Waupaca, costs for October and November were reported at $4,000 and $5,700, respectively.

Fishermen Ask Hearing On New Regulations
Green Bay—(AP)—Commercial fishermen of Green Bay today were planning an appeal to Governor LaFollette in opposition to regulations governing commercial fishing announced by the conservation commission, and which will become effective Jan. 1 if the governor approves.

The regulations, the fishermen claim, justify the four expressed last summer that, if the conservation commission instead of an independent board of fisheries were given control over commercial fishing, the interests of the commercial men would be subordinated to those of the sportsmen and resort owners.

George Lince, president of the Green Bay Fishermen's Protective association, today telegraphed Governor LaFollette requesting a hearing Dec. 30, in order to permit the fishermen to present their side before the regulations become effective.

ing to mix the two into some sort of deal.

But, right or wrong, in his judicial interpretation, the federal judge, a man of excellent reputation and independence, was promulgating the law in protecting his grand jury. Impeachment usually is urged when a judge is guilty of some unethical personal act, but almost never is impeached because the decisions of a judge are disliked. Once the custom is accepted of impeaching judges whose decisions are distasteful to the party in power, a dangerous precedent will have been established. This is the kind of thing which the national committee to uphold constitutional government, presided over by Frank E. Gannett of Rochester, N. Y., fought so vigorously when the "court packing" issue was before the congress, and it looks as if the committee would have plenty of other tasks now to safeguard the judiciary from invasion by political forces. There are many ways apparently to break down the judicial system besides attacking the supreme court itself. Running to the house judiciary committee every time a federal judge issues an opinion or ruling unfavorable to the department of justice appears to be one of the most palpable methods of coercion and undue influence that can be devised.

Hearing Closed on Proposal to Open New Antigo Bank

Citizens Offered Representation on Board of Present Institution

Madison—(AP)—Counsel for the Fidelity Savings bank closed a hearing before the state banking commission late yesterday with an offer to give Antigo citizens petitioning for a new bank charter representation on the Fidelity board of directors.

The offer by Attorney Ray Dempsey of Oshkosh climaxed statements made by 14 business and professional men of Antigo, who contended that Langlade county banking facilities were inadequate. There are two banks in the county, the Fidelity and another at Elecho.

Dempsey told the commission there was "no public necessity" for another bank in Antigo, but that the Fidelity directors would increase their board membership to give wider representation if local capital could be found to retire an indebtedness of $50,000 to the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

"The Fidelity directors believe that the answer to our problem is a strong local bank," Dempsey said. "There are competing with loans of $2,490,000 made in the county by federal and other local agencies. Another bank would weaken the home banking structure."

The offer from Fidelity officials, Dempsey said, was made on condition that M. K. Lamont, former cashier of the bank, would not become a party in the reorganization. Lamont was among the group seeking a new charter.

Resigned Sept. 30
Lamont told the commission he resigned from the Antigo bank last Sept. 30. He said he still holds stock in the bank, although he sold 20 shares a short time ago. Lamont testified that the Fidelity Savings bank, where he was employed 13 years, was operated efficiently in accordance with banking rules.

Lamont and other testified that some residents of Langlade county patronize banks in Rhinelander, Green Bay, Merrill, Wausau, Mattoon, and Menomonie, Mich., because of dissatisfaction over home banking conveniences. They were questioned by Attorney James R. Durfee, representing the petitioners, and Dempsey.

The charter application listed proposed capitalization of $75,000 with surplus of $18,000. Eighteen incorporators were listed.

Commissioner H. F. Ibach asked Durfee and Dempsey to file briefs by Jan. 10, summarizing testimony and financial figures relating to Langlade county.

Those who testified, in addition to Lamont, were Carl E. Zellmer, Jacob Hunter, Felix Zeloski, Norbert D. Schleis, Zen Brandt, Ignatius Frisch, Frank J. Pawtchek, Ben Freeman, Ernest Frisch, Jr., Otto J. Husemeier, Otto Wirth and Fred Leveque.

Cold Wave Coming, Weatherman Says

Mercury Drops Despite Bright Sun, Hits 19 In Afternoon

A 6-degree slump in the temperature from 9 o'clock this morning to 12:30 this afternoon heralded the approaching cold wave, the weatherman predicts for tonight in Appleton and vicinity.

A raw north-west wind overcame the efforts of a bright sun, driving the thermometer down to 19 degrees this afternoon from the morning reading of 25.

For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the warmest mark recorded was 35, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant. Cloudiness will accompany tonight's cold snap, reports indicated.

Miami, Fla., with 72 and Devils Lake, N. D., with two degrees below zero, produced the nation's temperature extremes yesterday.

August, 1937: Congress Goes Home; Stocks Start Decline

(Editor's note: This is the eighth in a series of twelve articles reviewing headline news of 1937.)

BY VOLTA TORREY

New York—(U)—August, 1937, brought "the big apple" and bounteous crops. But congress was too fagged to care when warriors cried for crop control. Promising to try that step first next session, the embittered lawgivers scrambled.

They had kicked through a housing bill, put plugs in tax loopholes, ordered a national unemployment census. But the fiercely debated minimum-wage and maximum-hour bill was not passed; nor had regional planning been launched. Alabama's first lady, Mrs. Bibb Graves, had flown into Hugo Black's senate seat in the jam session; he had shifted to Justice Van Devanter's spot. Senator Copeland, warming up for the race to be mayor of New York, charged at the outset that Black was a Ku Klux Klan "sympathizer." But the senate okayed the appointment, 63 to 16—a bigger margin than had been given either Chief Justice Hughes or veteran Justice Brandeis.

Mellon Dies President Roosevelt, at Roanoke Island, likened his foe (he was "slipping plenty," Republican Generalissimo Hamilton commented) to Lord Macaulay, 19th century historian who "had no faith in these United States."

"My anchor," the New Dealer asserted, "is democracy—and more democracy."

Alf Landon was advertising "dressed fries" for sale at his place in Kansas. Andrew Mellon died, leaving millions for promotion of mankind's "well doing or well being." Christopher D. Sullivan became Tammany's big chief.

Strikes and stocks began to decline; NLRB hearings made the headlines. German-American summer camps were viewed with alarm by anti-nazis. A wave of sex crimes and outbreaks of infantile paralysis frightened parents. A national crusade against syphilis gained momentum.

Franco Moves On Charley Zimny, a legless man, swam down the Hudson from Albany to Manhattan. Tommy Farr stayed 15 rounds with Joe Louis. The America's Cup races came out as usual. The 7,000,000th visitor saw the Furry fair. Paul Muni's "Zola" was applauded. Movie fans were boozing double features, and dancers humming "A Sailboat In The Moonlight."

The British admiralty complained that "promiscuous sinking of ships" in the blue Mediterranean was getting "a bit steep."

State Highways Are Reported in Good Condition

Commission Advises Careful Driving Because Of Slippery Spots

All state trunk highways in the state are in good to fair condition, according to the time of the year, according to the Wisconsin State Highway commission. Due to light snow fall, sleet and rain for the last week, practically the whole state trunk system is rather slippery and requires caution and careful driving, the department states.

All curves, hills, intersections and approaches to grade crossings have been sanded and there are only two detours on the system. They are in as good condition as the state trunks. The detours are Highway 141, Civitz-Amberg road, Marinette county, and Highway 45, Eagle River-Conover road, Vilas county.

Reports on road conditions will be issued each Friday during the winter by the commission. Any one desiring definite state-wide highway information should write to the main office at Madison, Local highway information may be obtained from the division offices. Outagamie county is in the third division which has offices in the Nicolet building, Green Bay.

Commission Head Completes Twenty Years of Service

J. J. Plank Named to Water Body in 1917; Elected Chairman in 1923

Joseph J. Plank, 340 W. Prospect avenue, this month rounded out 20 years of service on the Appleton Water commission, 15 years as its chairman.

The only remaining member of the group of men who served 20 years ago, Mr. Plank was named to the commission in December, 1917, and became its chairman in February, 1923, when the commission was reorganized into its present form.

Previous to 1917, Appleton was governed by a commission and August Gerlach was the city official in charge of the water department. When the city government was reorganized, a water commission was formed, composed of the mayor, an alderman and three citizens at large. In 1923, the water commission was again reorganized five citizens at large appointed by the mayor, and Mr. Plank was elected chairman. W. H. Timm was appointed in 1923 and is now serving as secretary.

Many Developments
The last 20 years have seen many developments in the city's water distribution system. A new office and shop building was built on Walnut street in 1934 at cost of $25,000. During the period, the records show, miles of water mains have nearly doubled. In 1917 there were 44 miles of mains in service and at the close of 1936, miles of main numbered 84.7. Estimates of main laid this year show a total of 9,800 feet, about a mile and a half, bringing the total to about 87 miles of water mains in service.

All water works bonds, floated for reconstruction of the plant in 1911, were retired in 1934. Since retirement of bonds constituted a large yearly expenditure up to that time and most of the large mains and other improvements had been installed, future capital expenditures have been estimated at $14,000 per year. Future revenues have been estimated at $54,000 per year.

This amount will increase so that before the close of 1944 the water department will have returned to the city capital revenues equal to the amount of money invested. If surplus in cash or improvements are returned to the city in the future,

SERVES 20 YEARS

J. J. Plank, 340 W. Prospect avenue, has served 20 years as a member of the Appleton Water commission. Elected to the commission in December, 1917, he was named its chairman in February, 1923. During his chairmanship, a new office and shop building has been constructed, water mains doubled, numbers of consumers tripled, and rates lowered.

the water department will pay for itself before 1944, it has been estimated.

6,922 Consumers
Over the period which Mr. Plank served on the commission, the number of consumers has grown from 2,584 in 1917 to 6,922 this month.

Rates have been drastically slashed in the last four or five years. From the time the commission was reorganized and previous to 1933, the rate for the first 500 cubic feet was 23 cents as compared to the present rate of 15 cents for the first 1,000 cubic feet. The rate for the next 3,000 cubic feet dropped from 20 cents to 13 cents; for the next 6,000 cubic feet from 18 cents to 10 cents; and for the next 40,000 cubic feet from 16 cents to 8 cents. The cost for all over 50,000 cubic feet is now 3 cents as compared to a previous range of 3 to 13 cents.

The plant and property was purchased in 1911 from the Appleton Water Works, owned by eastern financiers, for $255,000. Because of the bad state of repair of the plant at the time of purchase, bonds to the amount of $300,000 were floated and a new pumping station and modern filtration plant was constructed. Present physical value of the property and plant is $1,426,500. Present members of the commis-

Says Wage Bill Dead Until After The Next Election

Congressman Schneider Sees Hope for Child Labor Measure

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau
Washington — No further action will be taken on wages and hours legislation until after the next election, predicts Congressman George J. Schneider of Appleton, only Wisconsin member of the house labor committee.

"I feel the motion to recommit the wages and hours bill was a motion to kill the bill. I look for no action in the next session," Schneider said.

The Appleton representative thinks that "when the propaganda flood which has deluged so many members subsides, more members may see the light and something will be done."

House action in sending the bill back to committee, in Schneider's opinion, is "action against the New Deal, against progressive forces, and against labor's desire for relief from low wages, the sweat shop, child labor, and other evils."

The child labor amendments which Schneider presented and which were adopted he considers "the best in any bill ever before Congress to prohibit child labor in industries throughout the nation."

Modeled on State Laws
The Appleton representative's amendments, modeled on Wisconsin child labor laws, provided that no work certificates should be issued to children under 14. They excluded children under 16 from employment in certain work in connection with forestry, fishing, taking of sea-food and sponges and chipping pine trees for gum. Children between 16 and 18 would have been required to have a work certificate for employment in "hazardous work." The Children's bureau would have had complete supervision of the child labor features of the law, issuing certificates, etc.

Chief objector to the Schneider amendments was Congressman John Martin, Democrat of Colorado. Martin objected to the child labor amendments, on the ground that they were presented at "the eleventh hour and fifty-ninth minute" of the debate.

The Schneider amendments, he claimed, would have "handed over to the bureau chief the law as well as the children."

"It seems to me," he added, "that the only way they can repair this alleged child labor bill is to jack up the title to it and run a new bill under it."

CERTAINLY JUDGE GEIGER IS INDEPENDENT

The more the facts in the Judge Geiger matter are brought into view the more it appears that the Attorney General was "Hoist by his own petard," or in more modern language, caught in his own bear trap.

After Senator Wheeler smashed the Administration's written purpose of having some roving judges it could keep in its pocket and take around the country wherever it wanted to use them for its own purpose, it deliberately selected Judge Geiger at Milwaukee for the inquiry into the automobile finance company. And thereby hangs a tale. And an interesting, peppery tale.

These companies, all residents of other states, were brought into Wisconsin for investigation for the stated reason that the judge had a "reputation as an able, impartial, experienced and honest jurist, and was particularly respected for the dignity and rigid discipline he maintained in his court."

But there was probably more to it than that. One must understand Judge Geiger's standing among business men and lawyers in the state to fully appreciate the move the government made at that time.

The judge may forgive a ragamuffin but he is a stern and hard man on the bench to any business man who cuts corners with the law. A nice little trip to Leavenworth is nothing in such a case.

Can anyone doubt that the government wanted a hard, inflexible, judge with these financiers in the auto business? Nor is the government's conduct wicked in coming to Milwaukee. It had that right.

But the Attorney General didn't seem to be acquainted with another part of Judge Geiger's reputation. Woe to the lawyer who tries any slippery stuff, is guilty of conduct considered tricky. Woe, and several more woes! That trait in Judge Geiger was to the Attorney General like the sunken road at Waterloo to Napoleon. The Attorney General dashed madly on with his work satisfied to have a stern judge, but learned in consternation that the sternness was quite impartial and could be turned against even an Attorney General who acted improperly.

Judge Geiger's position during these proceedings was this: The criminal law must be used to bring violators to justice and not as a weapon, either through the shame of indictment or the threat of a long trial in a strange city, to force men to do what they may not have to do or what they otherwise would not. That is quite an old doctrine, and a very necessary one.

The Attorney General's complaint in respect to other cases in which Judge Geiger has acted in a somewhat similar manner only confirms this view. The judge will not permit the grand jury to be used, as he says, "for a collection agency," and insists that when men have wantonly violated the income tax laws they shall be sent to prison instead of being permitted to buy their way out by a compromise with the Attorney General. In the income tax cases Judge Geiger declared from the bench that "the government's tactics put the court in a position repugnant to good morals." Then, as now, the judge said, "I can't see how conduct like this leaves the court with clean hands and it is an imposition on the grand jury in that it makes the grand jury in advance a party to the deal."

It was the finance companies that wanted the grand jury with its indictments stopped. It was the Attorney General who agreed to halt the criminal machinery. It was Judge Geiger who insisted that grand jury indictments shall not be voted unless the Attorney General meant business and intended to go through with them.

The proposition is not whether Judge Geiger's ruling is altogether right or that all agree with it. It is that his ruling is actuated by the highest principles of honor and straight dealing.

So we have the Attorney General, just to polish off a record brilliant with blunders, complaining to the House that one of our judges is too strait-laced and intimating he should be impeached.

In this endeavor the Attorney General will be associated with and supported by every scamp who ever felt the sting of the law. It will be a ribald and discordant crew, like a bunch of pirates under Captain Kidd. There will be rum runners, still operators, income tax dodgers, extortioners, usurers, cut-throats, dope sellers, white slavers, and to crown that cluster of stars there will be the shysters who have had to disgorge their ill gotten gains and some of whom have been vacationing at federal prisons.

LUDENDORFF

It is not surprising that in a nation like Germany where military service has been a fetish so long genius in military affairs was bound to be developed. But it is surprising that even there great military leadership was not to be distinctly revealed until after the war was well under way.

Prince von Bulow, once Chancellor of the empire and a statesman of the first water, wrote after the war that General Ludendorff "is and will remain one of the great figures in our history." The two decades since the conclusion of hostilities have brought almost a common conclusion that Ludendorff's plans were largely responsible for the most amazing and magnificent achievements of the German army.

But Ludendorff did not come to his high position until two years after the war started. At the outset he was a colonel. And the German army had thousands of colonels. He came to supreme command along with von Hindenburg by the sheer force of his genius.

But in a long drawn out war the Reich failed, and perhaps entirely because the keystone between the military and the civil authorities, the Kaiser, refused to face the facts, entrenched himself in optimism and failed utterly as the masterful personality he had long considered and painted himself.

Germany found that, indispensable as is superb military leadership, statesmanship, too, was an absolute necessity. Between the military and the civil authorities, and bound to develop and direct their sometimes antagonistic and often jarring disputes, was a so-called Supreme War Lord who had posed in many fighting attitudes but crumbled in despair when the test came.

As Ludendorff himself wrote: "The Emperor was Supreme War Lord. Over army and navy his was the unquestioned power of command. The Chief of Staff personally conducted operations in the field, but under His Majesty's orders. Vital decisions had to obtain the imperial sanction; the Chief of Staff did not possess supreme authority."

It was such a man who liked to compare himself to Attila the Hun and turned into a tragic figure under stress who was to decide between the military and the civil authorities concerning the unrestricted submarine warfare, the direct cause of America's entry into the war and subsequent German collapse, and who was dazzled in his decision by the military, Ludendorff among them, to his undoing.

Thus does General Ludendorff's career establish that the military alone cannot be successful in a prolonged struggle and that ultimately, however brilliantly it may operate, it must be restrained by statesmanship, by men who can see something more than the field of battle.

The result of a war is not necessarily the soldier's epitaph. Lee and Stonewall Jackson will ever be at the forefront of American military leaders although the confederacy failed. Even through defeat Ludendorff's greatness grows because he evidenced the almost perfect mixture of audacity and organization in all his plans, and he was so constituted physically and mentally that he could lie under belching cannon and sleep when it was time to sleep and, thus refreshed, think and act straight to his purpose.

WHY OUR GOVERNMENT LIVES

Abraham Lincoln said a few months before his tragic death:

"It has long been a grave question whether any government, not too strict for the liberties of its people, can be strong enough to maintain its existence in great emergencies."

As a tonic a man ought to read that sentence over several times, carefully, word by word. All at once he will realize that he has stumbled onto a gold mine of truth.

The words are simple as was everything Mr. Lincoln wrote. But the thought is deep and spans the centuries.

There, set before the people, is the fine and delicate balance that is the purpose of all honest government and yet has so rarely been the achievement of governments for as long a time as this government in America has lasted.

Perhaps America rode the violent tempest of civil war because it had a president who understood clearly the long-time purpose of government.

Opinions Of Others

A CASE FOR THE HOSPITAL

"Ten dollars or 30 days in jail," says the judge. He has said it many times before to this same offender. The sentence is the limit of the law for begging or petty thieving. The law, the court and the jail do as they are required, but the cause of the evil is not reached.

The wretch who thus divides his time between beggary and stealing with short periods of free board in jail is a victim of the liquor or the drug habit, but the law does nothing to get at the cause of his trouble and the trouble he causes society. The narcotic committee of Wayne County Medical society and the Detroit Bureau of Government Research have made a study of such cases. Their report says Detroit merchants are losing from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000 a year through thefts by dope addict thieves. When a dope or a drunk begins to repeat in court, he should be treated as a sick man rather than as a criminal, and cared for accordingly. —Detroit News.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

IN THE CHRISTMAS CHOIR

Back of the Christmas music, I can hear A little boy who loved so much to sing. He would anticipate this time of year. And raise his young voice gladly, worshipping. This year there are no toys to buy for him. Only a garland of bright flowers to lay Upon a little grave. Our eyes grow dim. It will be hard to smile on Christmas Day.

But then we think, his heart will never ache; He will not hide his tears as we hide ours. He will not bend, for anybody's sake, Above a grave and cover it with flowers. He will not shrink from disappointment's blow. Or learn that love can pass, and friends betray. Our little boy is spared a lifetime's woe. For he is safe with God on Christmas Day.

The carolers will come. . . Often before He greeted them and joined with them in song. But now he sings to God at Heaven's door. His sweet notes rising in an angel throng. Back of the sounds of every day we hear His voice, and there is gladness in the way He sings to us. . . His song will conquer fear. And help us bear our loss on Christmas Day! (Copyright, 1937)

10 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 21, 1927

No signs of life were found in the torpedo room of the sunken submarine S-4 by James Ingram, the first diver to go down Wednesday. Rear Admiral Frank H. Brumby reported in a radio message.

Plans for the annual banquet of the Appleton chapter, No. 1, of the Isaac Walton League of America will be formulated at a meeting of this evening. Members of the committee are Richard Sykes, president, Joseph Schultz, secretary, William Falatic, E. W. Shannon and Dr. G. E. Massart.

Dan Hardt, assistant to President H. M. Wriston at Lawrence college, has resigned to accept a position in advertising and sales work with the Neenah Paper company. The Men's Brotherhood of the First English Lutheran church will sponsor a Boy Scout troop, according to a decision made at a meeting last night. The Rev. F. C. Reuter is pastor of the church and F. M. Foot was named scoutmaster.

THE LAST MAN'S CLUB

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

CHRONIC OXYGEN DEFICIT

Besides headache, the anoxia or oxygen deficit due to frequent mild gassing with carbon monoxide or to daily exposure to small but definite admixtures of the colorless, odorless, tasteless gas with air, may give rise to some other signs or symptoms which are often wrongly attributed to "neurasthenia," "fatigue" and the like—vague and seldom satisfactory explanations for any impairment of health. Yes, and even "indigestion" — but let us waive the question of "indigestion" here—suffice to say that no such state or malady is recognized in pathology, no matter how many pages of common sense consideration the publicity man of the big clinic prints about it.

Languor, strange unaccountable languor in one who is not ordinarily subject to it and has done nothing to warrant it, may well arouse suspicion of chronic anoxia, whether from carbon monoxide gassing or from altitude or from any other interference with the vital oxidation process of life. The languor of CD anoxia is commonly associated with a pallor, but also the individual looks anemic, examination of the blood usually reveals, instead of a reduction in the number of red corpuscles, an actual increase in their number above the normal together with a corresponding increase in the iron coloring matter, the hemoglobin, from the normal 90 per cent or more to 100 or 110 per cent, as hemoglobin is measured by the clinical test.

Anorexia (a two dollar word for lack of appetite or poor appetite) is a familiar manifestation or complaint of persons suffering from carbon monoxide anoxia. When this is accompanied with actual nausea at times, the victim is likely to conclude he has some kind of "digestion" and to blame the food, the cooking, his nerves, worry over business matters, domestic responsibilities and so on.

If exposure to carbon monoxide is habitual or frequent, say incidental to employment or bad conditions in the home, notwithstanding the characteristic pallor the pale skin becomes strikingly flushed at times and with this feverish flushing there is more or less mental confusion or irritability and a vague sense of alarm.

It is my conjecture, to take it or leave it, that anoxia, whether from carbon monoxide gassing or from other cause, is the real pathological state in a good many cases at present ticketed "neurasthenia." According to the old masters, the old timers as I call 'em, who conceived and for a generation successfully upheld the theory of "neurasthenia" or weak nerves, the distinctive symptom was quick fatigability. That, I believe, is the very first manifestation of anoxia. Physiologists have found that brain tissue is most sensitive to any deficit of oxygen. So I wonder, just wonder whether deficiency in the supply of or the absorption and utilization of oxygen is not the prime factor in most cases of so-called "weak nerves." And I wonder, just wonder, whether the lack of vitamin B in the average American diet is not the explanation for this anoxia in many cases where neither carbon monoxide nor altitude can be concerned.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Phosphorus

What effect on health would insufficient phosphorus in the daily diet have? (Miss D. M. W.)

Answer—Well, not so good. Good sources of phosphorus are lean beef, milk, cheese, turnips, peanuts, plain wheat, oatmeal, potatoes, carrots, dried beans, almonds. Complementary relation between calcium and phosphorus assimilation—the one aids the other. Adequate ration of vitamin D daily essential for assimilation of both: for example, average of six irradiated yeast tablets daily to supplement the diet, especially during the winter months. Or cod liver oil or halibut liver oil if you prefer it—six teaspoonfuls daily.

Cataract
You advised a young woman not to marry because she has cataract, implying that cataract is heritable. My psychology study has given me the impression that cataract is not heritable. (H. G.)

Answer—Cataract is congenital in certain cases—present at birth or developing in early childhood. Physicians regard this as heritable.

Chronic Arsenic Poisoning
Your allusion to the "garlic-like odor" on the breath of a person with chronic arsenic poisoning led to the diagnosis of my husband's case. . . . We wrote to Dept. of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and received a lot of printed pamphlets on the lead arsenic sprays on fruits and vegetables. (Mrs. F. T.)

Your Birthday

"CAPRICORN"
If December 23, is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a. m.; from 1:45 to 3:45 p. m., and from 7:45 to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 a. m. from 5:45 to 7:45 p. m., and from 9:45 to 11:45 p. m.

Be careful a sense of irritation does not cause you to be extremely fussy, this day. An inclination to be dictatorial will be the average person's besetting sin, and may be the underlying cause of many quarrels. Haste perhaps will be responsible for a great waste or both time and money. There is danger of the average person's efforts being misdirected, so consider carefully every phase of work you have to do. Mark conditions may be peculiar, so use your best judgment in making purchases of any kind. What one man loses will most likely prove to be another's gain. According to a law of development, many embryonic ideas may become practical, so that this ought to be an auspicious day for inventors, architects, scenic artists and playwrights. Married and engaged couples, as well as those engaged in courtships, must be careful that conflicting emotions do not result in the use of poor judgment.

If a woman and December 23 is your birthday, your pleasure-loving proclivities may make you ignore the serious side of life. You ought to be able to develop a skill in work of a technical nature. Work that requires a combination of brain work and skillful hands, appears to be the most likely sort through which you can advance your personal fortune. Through some artistic line of endeavor, selling, writing, teaching, or as an office executive, you are apt to gain financial independence. Married life ought to have much to offer you in the way of advantages and happiness.

The child born on Dec. 23, may, during its adolescence, be rather difficult to manage. Patience, combined with firmness, will get this youngster straightened out by the time it enters its teens. Many of the world's most successful men and women have been born on this date so there is no reason why this child cannot be numbered among them eventually.

If a man and December 23 is your natal day, you may depend largely upon your own judgment in making important decisions. As a geologist, botanist, engineer, inventor, banker, manufacturer, lawyer, author or salesman your success may be enviable.

Charles S. Minot, biologist and educator.

James S. Brown, inventor and manufacturer.

Joseph H. Lumpkin, jurist.

THOSE INTERNATIONAL BANKERS AGAIN

Editor Post-Crescent—Slowly but surely the powers that be, the International Bankers, have been bringing the American people closer and closer to a war with Japan. Why? To protect the interests of the big exploiting companies in China. Their holdings must not be confiscated. Rather than that this should happen our American youth must be sacrificed.

This affair of the Panay. Something like this was bound to happen. It parallels the affair of the Maine in 1898. Newspapers all over the country are trying to inflame the people against the Japanese. This is the time the American people, farmers and laborers, must stand pat and use their common sense.

Ask yourselves what the Panay was doing in these waters. It was protecting the oil ships of a big oil company. Safeguarding the interests of the International Bankers. These International Bankers must pay the bill. It must not be paid by our innocent children. In my opinion Sir Anthony Eden, Norman Davis and Secretary Hull have been slowly working toward this crisis. The crisis is here, and it is up to the American people to permit the above-named gentlemen to hold the bag.

Do you think Mr. Farmer and Mr. Laborer that this Hull who is at present working tooth and nail to destroy your markets by his reciprocal trade pacts, is a loyal American? I do not. His methods will reduce the farmer and laborer in America to the status of the European peasant. Apparently this is the object of the International Bankers.

We may find much to criticize in Mussolini, but, I shall always admire him for the stand he took against Sir Anthony Eden. Our poor simple American leaders are being led around by this same Sir Anthony and are flattered to death by the honor. When I say, "to death," I mean it literally.

For the sake of your sons, American father and mothers, do something. In a few days it will be too

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — To a degree the earlier hue and cry for repeal of the corporate surplus and capital gains taxes have died down, and it is notable that the manifesto of the Vandenberg-Bailey-Byrd group called for revision and not for repeal.

One of the factors helping to drown the cry for outright repeal is the increasing evidence that control of agricultural production is going to cost real money. Whatever it costs must be raised by taxes if the President's wishes on that subject are to be followed.

Whatever faults the taxes may have, they have raised a certain amount of money. If they are abolished, some other shoulder must be found which can bear new ones.

Mr. Du Pont's Position

The manifesto, a ten-point program advanced by a group of conservative senators mostly Democratic, led off with a statement about taxation. The quotations are from a published text:

"The capital gains tax and the undistributed profits tax ought to be revised at once without reducing revenue so as to free funds for investment and promote the normal flow of savings into profitable and productive use, not for the sake of capital, but for the consequences in expanding business, larger employment and a more active consumer demand for goods."

From two other sources recently has come something of the same idea, and perhaps pointed more in a certain direction. Lamont du Pont, president of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and company, speaking before the national association of manufacturers, repeatedly stressed that uncertainty was perhaps a greater deterrent to business than the actual level of taxes. He agreed, of course, that a reduction also would be acceptable.

"At this juncture," he said, "the stabilization of tax rates over a definite period, plus a simplification of the tax structure, may be almost more important than the actual level of taxes." The present fear that we face a rapidly ascending tax scale, as well as new taxes, the nature of which nobody can guess, stands like a wall in the path of industrial expansion."

Research Fund Agrees

For an almost identical statement we can go to a study made by the Twentieth Century Fund, an endowed research organization. The results of the study were published in a text called "Facing the Tax Problem." In a chapter on "Taxable Capacity" is this quotation:

"The taxes or the rates that happen to be in force at the moment are not decisive. The taxpayer looks to the future. What may be is more important to him than what is. A constant threat of a high income tax rate even if no such tax is ever levied is a stronger deterrent to the investor and promoter than the actual existence of such a tax over an extended period coupled with a constantly renewed hope of repeal."

In spite of the earlier—and to some extent current—agitation for scaling down taxes on business, there are a goodly number in congress, conservatives and liberals alike, who will oppose any move likely to shrink the treasury's income.

late. Bring prompt action to bear upon your Senators and Representatives. Write to them and tell them your sons will not fight for the holdings of the International Bankers in China.

Toiletries Make Useful Gifts For Whole Family

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Make it fun for the kiddies to take their bath, give your growing daughter the make-up and perfume she's been wanting for ages, treat your college son to a he-man's toilet water, and cater to the house-master's sense of the "scientific" then you'll be keeping beauty in the family and the family will be ever grateful.

Starting with the youngest member of the family first: do you know that there's a baby gift box to be had—quality soap, powder and cream, just to give the young one a clean start.

And Jane and Johnny of just-turned-school-age will go through the ritual of washing behind the ears, without so much as a squawk if you give them a package of Santa soap and individual wash cloth.

Brushes, by all means, if you are at all in doubt, and nothing is more appropriate for the daughter of high-school age—brushes that have good-looking backs as well as efficient bristles, brushes for every need of beauty and good grooming. Hair brush, tooth brush, nail brush, bath brush, complexion brush, down to shoe brush and clothes brush. They all belong to the beauty scheme because they further good grooming, an integral part of personal loveliness.

For the men of the house, remember that they want to save their faces and their hair. Both. Shaving creams, shaving soaps, shaving bowls, after-shaving lotions that soothe and soothe the skin and talcum that is hardly noticeable—all these are masculine-as-can-be. Growing in popularity are deodorants and toilet waters for men, eau de cologne and toilet soaps. For the traveler: compact sets of shaving accessories, comb, brush, nail file.

A fairly new item is a lotion to be used before electric shaving, and perfect set-up making each bristle ready for a close, clean clipping.

Players Afraid to Bid High

BY ELY CULBERTSON

For years I have been writing that players do not fully appreciate the value of that simple word "pass." The national examination further convinced me of this fact. In every question where "pass" was the correct answer, contestants proved that that is a call made only with the greatest reluctance. This observation applies particularly to those situations in which the opponents could be trapped into a disastrous contract. Take question No. 46, for example:

Rubber bridge. You are South, not vulnerable. Opponents are vulnerable. The bidding has proceeded:

You, South, hold:

♠ A 10 8 ♥ K J 10 8 ♣ J 4 3 ♦ A K 9

What call do you make over East's one heart bid?

I was so sure that most readers would either double the heart bid or overcall with no trump, that I gave a two point prize for passing, and no demerit for either of the mentioned bids. Of course, the 100 pugnacious individuals who bid two no trump had to be chastised to the tune of two demerits. Only 340 contestants earned the two point reward for making the proper trap pass. Five hundred and seventy-eight bid no trump and one hundred and fifty-three doubled for a take-out. I had been very careful in laying out South's hand, and in stating the conditions of vulnerability that made a trap pass so attractive. South did not hold so much that he had to fear the one heart bid being passed all around. We all know how lightly opening bids are kept open by the responder. In this case South could see that if West bids even one no trump, the vulnerable opponents are going to be in trouble. If North passes to one no trump and East does likewise, South should make a delayed double, which itself will be a very strong urge that North pass for penalties. If East chooses to rebid his hearts, or another suit, a highly lucrative penalty should result.

The bidding:

North Pass East Pass West Pass
North Pass East Pass West Pass
North Pass East Pass West Pass
North Pass East Pass West Pass

North's three heart bid was a stretch, even though there was some logic in the effort to show "better than a preference."

West opened the singleton spade, dummy played low, East split his honors and declarer won with the ace. The singleton club was led toward dummy and the king led to East's ace. A spade return was ruffed by West, declarer not caring much, since he had a losing spade anyway. West shifted to a trump. Dummy's king won and a club was followed by a diamond ruff, then another club ruffed and another diamond ruffed with dummy's last trump. The play now was in dummy and the only exit was by club ruff. East also, of course, was out of clubs and should have ruffed with his blank and, therefore, worthless heart queen. But he had too much fondness for that card. Declarer ruffed and laid down the heart ace, dropping the queen and jack in one fell swoop, discarding a spade in dummy. Dummy's spade and fifth club then were perfectly good for the last two tricks.

East's adoration for his heart queen had cost, not merely a trick, but two tricks and, thus, the game.

Tendency of Children to Kick Should Be Checked

BY ANGELO PATRI

Babies, kick. They have to in order to grow power in their legs and backs. But there is a time when they outgrow the need and they ought to outgrow the tendency about the same time. Teach them that their feet must stay on the ground always. They are not to kick at an animal, and, of course, never actually kick it. They must never kick any person, any creature, anything. It is not done.

Little boys kick longer than little girls, as a usual thing. I suppose it is their nature showing itself. Anyway, they kick. Sometimes they kick their mothers. I have seen patient mothers holding their sturdy little sons at arm's length while the little gentlemen struggled to land a kick on their shins. That's bad.

Such a time is not right for patience. It is right for discipline, prompt and smart. The child who kicks his mother because she says he cannot ride the elephant or have an ice cream soda is in sad need of immediate attention. Stop him the first time. Teach him to keep his feet where they belong.

These children kick other children when they are out of sorts with them. Benjie won't let Tommy ride his wheel, so Tommy kicks him and he is not discriminating about the place he kicks. That is dangerous. The kicker should be taken into the house and disciplined so that he understands that kicking is out.

Long ago kicking was barred from sporting circles. It was always barred among cultivated people. Even a kicking animal is in disfavor. Nobody wants him around the place. Children who kick people, or animals or things, are not wanted among the others and soon find themselves set apart and labelled, "No sport."

This is a tendency of little children. They begin to show it strongly about the age of three, and if not checked, continue it until something happens to teach them that it won't do. It is better to teach them early than have someone else teach them later at great personal cost.

It is not funny for a little child to get into a temper and kick his dog. It is an ugly demonstration. It is bad breeding, showing through. Dogs are not kicked by decent people. Decent people do not kick themselves out of a rage. The kicking child is in danger of listing himself on the wrong side of the page. Teach him early to keep his feet on the floor.

There are children who kick furniture. Mistaken people have en-

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Stone Age Temple

Thirty-five years ago, some workmen were digging a well in Malta when one of them felt the ground give way beneath his feet. He dropped some distance, but was not much hurt, and was able to crawl out.

Stone scrapers, also sling-stones and stone mallets.

Ornaments of many kinds were dug up. They included shell beads and animal teeth which had been carved in special shapes.

To reach the Hypogeum, as this place is known, I made a motor trip from Valletta. Going down a modern stairway, I found myself in an underground chamber.

"This chamber," said my guide, "was carved in the rock by people of the Late Stone Age. They did not have a single metal tool, and it is a wonder they were able to cut the rock with the tools they did have."

Going through a passage, I entered another roof of the same kind, and then another. There are more than a dozen rooms and halls in this underground place. One room is 10 feet wide and 25 feet long.

After we reached a room with a high ceiling, the guide said:

"Before the Hypogeum was used as a burial place, it is believed to have been an underground temple. This room appears to have been a chapel in which sacrifices were offered to the gods."

Statues made of stone and clay were found in the Hypogeum. It is supposed they are images of gods and goddesses worshipped there. If this be true, the Late Stone Age folk made their gods and goddesses look very "fat."

LETTERS FROM YOUNG PEOPLE

Dear Mrs. Post: A question has arisen on the campus, which doesn't seem to be satisfactorily answered anywhere—not even in your book. The question concerns the use of the napkin, especially with regard to the number of appearances it may make above the table during the course of a meal.

Answer: This answer depends entirely upon how much you need to use a napkin. A man who has a mustache has difficulty in eating without getting food on his lips, unless his mustache is trimmed very short above the edge of his lip. Sometimes, too, some one, through an accident, has lost the use of nerves of his face and can not always feel a particle of food adhering to his lips. In these cases it is better to use the napkin constantly. But otherwise you should train yourself to learn to eat without smearing food on your lips. If necessary, try looking in a mirror when you are at the table alone.

Dear Mrs. Post: I believe the practice of thanking people can be overdone, but others claim that there is no such thing as overdoing politeness. For instance, when in the company of some one who is constantly opening doors, holding one's coat, pulling out one's chair, helping one into a car, picking up one's handkerchief or gloves, wouldn't say "Thank you" after each one of these courtesies wear threadbare by the end of the evening?

Answer: It would if all these "Thank you's" were said immediately after the other, but the courtesies are probably divided by a certain length of time. On the other hand, if they are all grouped together in quick succession, you might say "Thank you" for the entire series at once. Or perhaps, since you seem to have the dropping habit, you might say something about being sorry for your own incompetence in being unable to keep your possessions together.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am not one of the indiscriminate multitude of autograph seekers, but I do have in my possession several books which have been signed by the authors who gave them to me. I've also had a book which I have read over and over again, written by a man who's coming soon to lecture in this community. I shall of course go to hear him, and wondered if I could be considered presumptuous if

Lists Pitfalls to Avoid For Happily Married Life

BY DOROTHY DIX

Girls, if you want to be happy though married, keep out of Reno. DON'T marry a man who has never made his own living, for the chances are ten to one that he will never be able to support you. Don't marry for money, but don't marry without any of it. There is no magic in the marriage ceremony that causes a woman to grow feathers and live on thin air, and you will find you are just as hungry and need clothes as much as a Mrs. as you did as a Miss. Handsome ne'er-do-wells and temperamental lads who can never hold down a job are fascinating as sweethearts, but they are wash-outs as husbands.

DOROTHY DIX

you should wear, forbidding you to use lipstick, and informing you generally just where you get off, alight on the side farthest from the altar.

DON'T marry a tightwad. There is nothing else that riles a woman so much as to have to work for her board and clothes and then chloroform her husband before she can get the price of them out of him. Watch the lads who take you out and pass up the one who has a lock on his pocketbooks and says he never tips on principle.

DON'T marry a selfish man who always puts his pleasure and comfort above yours. If you do, you will be nothing but a doormat for him the remainder of your life. You will wear hand-me-downs while his clothes come from an expensive tailor. You will stay at home at nights with the baby while he steps out to night clubs. When a man takes you to a jazz concert when he knows you are pining to hear the symphony orchestra, or orders corned beef and cabbage when your taste runs to caviar, beware. Your guardian angel is hanging out a red lantern of warning.

DON'T marry an arguer. Pass up the man who is "agin" everything on earth and to whom you cannot even say it is a pleasant day without starting something. He will object to your clothes, to your cooking, to your family, to your friends, to your belonging to clubs or not belonging to clubs, to going out of an evening or staying at home, and life with him will be one long debate that will keep your nerves raw and your temper on edge and make you long for an early death, or get a divorce.

DON'T marry a vain man. If you do, you will have to work like a coal-heaver keeping his ego inflated. The minute you stop telling him how big and strong, handsome and wonderful, wise and witty he is he will stray after any woman who will "understand and appreciate" him.

DON'T marry a philanderer. The man who was born with a wandering foot has a congenital affliction that no woman can cure. Don't believe him when he tells you that he has found his ideal at last in you. If you do, he will tire of you and break your heart because it isn't in him to be faithful to any one. Speed him on his way and save yourself.

DON'T marry Mother's fair-haired boy. The worst husband in the world is the man who has been spoiled and babied, humored and waited on hand and foot by his mother, and who expects his wife to keep on spoiling, babying, humoring and picking up after him. If you marry Mama's pet, he will always be the youngest and most troublesome of your children and you will get awfully tired of trying to get along with a grown man who acts like a 2-year-old. Unless you think you will enjoy a lifelong career as a nursemaid, don't undertake the job.

DON'T — and all the law and the prophets about how to be happy though married is comprised in this — marry any man who isn't what you want in a husband to start with. Don't think that you can change any man's tastes and habits, and character after you get him. Nature and his mother attended to them some twenty-odd years before you ever saw him. Lots of women believe they can put pep in the peppy, quench the thirst of drunkards and domesticate the roaners, but the names of those who succeed in doing so could be written on a silver dime. Don't attempt the impossible.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

Lawlessness in Jersey City

There is a condition of affairs in Jersey City which has a very special claim upon the attention of those who feel deeply about the attempt to pack the Supreme Court of the United States. For at this moment in Jersey City the plainest and the most ancient of American civil rights are openly suspended by the Mayor, Mr. Frank Hague, his police force and his political henchmen.

The facts in the case are simple. The issue is, I think, perfectly clear. Those of us who opposed the President last winter because we believed his judiciary bill would impair the liberties which depend upon the impartial administration of the law cannot now overlook the Mayor of Jersey City when he destroys those same liberties by a completely arbitrary use of official force.

For if we meant what we said last winter when the judiciary bill was before the Senate, then we cannot now be silent, acquiescent, or too busy to bother about Mayor Hague and the constitutional rights of the C. I. O. organizers.

Ordinance Forbids Distribution on Street

Jersey City has an ordinance passed in 1924 which forbids the distribution in "any street or public place" of "any newspaper, paper, periodical, book, magazine, circular, card or pamphlet." For violating this ordinance, or even for "consenting to" its violation, presumably by accepting printed matter, a person in Jersey City may be fined $10 or imprisoned for ten days on the first offense, or both, and fined $25 or imprisoned thirty days or both for each subsequent offense.

This is, of course, a most extraordinary law. Under it a man could be clapped into jail for handing to a passerby a circular inviting him to vote for Mayor Hague or to subscribe to a policeman's bail. That the ordinance has been on the books for nearly fourteen years can mean, I should suppose, only one of two things: either that in Jersey City, unlike any other spot in the country, no one ever has wished to distribute circulars and advertisements, or that the ordinance has not been enforced except occasionally against individuals or organizations that are too weak to defend their legal rights. For it seems fairly clear that the ordinance is contrary to the principles of constitutional freedom as understood in the United States or in any state within the union, and that as a matter of fact it is unconstitutional under decisions of the courts of New Jersey.

Denied Jury Trial, Bail or Sentence Stay

However, on November 29 seven C. I. O. members or sympathizers were arrested in Jersey City for violating this ordinance. The only charge against them was that they had distributed leaflets on a public street in Jersey City. It was not charged that they had broken any other law or that the circular advocated the breach of any law. Their offense was that they distributed a leaflet. For this they were sentenced to five days in jail.

They were refused a jury trial. They were refused a stenographer to make a record. They were refused bail. They were refused a stay of sentence. They appealed immediately. But on the ground that counsel for Jersey City was not present, Chief Justice Brogan of the Supreme Court refused to hear the motion. Finally, on December 9, their petition of appeal was argued and the District Attorney was given ten days to prepare his brief. The appeal will, however, do them no good. For they have already been compelled to serve their sentences.

Surely, these proceedings must be described as an outrage upon the inner principle of constitutional liberty. For an obviously minor and technical offense against an ordinance of extremely doubtful legality these men have been held without bail, convicted, and refused a stay of sentence till they could appeal.

Seized by Police and Driven Out of City

But this does not exhaust the lawless conduct of Mayor Hague's administration. For these seven men were at least arrested and convicted in a police court. But many other men who have wished to distribute leaflets in Jersey City have not even been arrested and convicted in a police court. They have been seized by the police, and without any further legal proceedings, have been by sheer physical force driven out of Jersey City.

This is official lawlessness, naked and unashamed. If there is any ground on which this can be defended, if there is any pretext on which it can be condoned, if there is any reason why it should be tolerated, I do not know what it is.

Duty of Conservatives To Defend Principles

For no one, I take it unless it be Mayor Hague himself, will undertake to argue that because they belong to the C. I. O. these agitators are not entitled to the benefits of the Bill of Rights. Perhaps there will be some who think that even though they do not quite like to say so.

They should remember the struggle last winter when the opponents of the court packing plans were accused of being the mere defenders of predatory and reactionary interests. During that struggle liberal and progressive men were not deterred by that accusation; they fought for the integrity of the Constitution and the independence of the courts regardless of the fact that many would benefit with whom they wholly disagreed.

Now the shoe is on the other foot. Now it is the C. I. O., an organization of the left, that is being op-

Sentence 3 Vagrants to County Detention Camp

Charles Carr, Milwaukee, and Freeman White, Green Bay, were found guilty of vagrancy in municipal court of Judge Thomas H. Ryan yesterday afternoon and were sentenced to 30 days in the Outagamie county detention camp. A third transient, Martin Jeffery, Rhinelander, pleaded guilty of vagrancy and was sentenced to 20 days by Judge Ryan.

pressed, and now it is the peculiar obligation of conservatives who believe in constitutionalism to go to the defense of these same principles. For the principles they profess are gravely attacked. They are gravely attacked in Jersey City, and the American bar which was so thoroughly aroused last winter should become thoroughly aroused once more.

They should be grateful for the chance to prove so clearly that they really meant what they said; they can prove it by insisting on the restoration of law and order in the state of New Jersey.

Senator Berry, No Doubt, Paid a Lot for the Leases

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—A constituent of big-hearted George Berry, the junior senator from Tennessee and millionaire president of the Pressmen's union, has a letter from the rich labor leader appealing for money to save the children of his neighbors in the mountains of eastern Tennessee. Senator Berry, who is currently engaged in pressing a claim against the government for assorted marbles forever lost beneath the water behind Norris dam at Knoxville, betrays in this letter a sentimental side of his nature which is not sufficiently emphasized in the litigation over his rights, if any.

"My home is in these beautiful southern mountains," he says, failing, out of modesty, no doubt, to add that his home is literally his castle and that his own side-hill patch in the beautiful southern mountains is a domain of 30,000 acres, "and I am proud of the kindly people of sturdy American stock, especially of our children."

"From them will come workers in industrial and other fields, genuine leaders, too, if they are given bodies strong enough to resist diseases of malnutrition; if their minds are trained in the fundamentals of education and their characters made free from hurtful prevalent weakness due to the isolation of past generations."

This is all too true, and it is a privilege to give publicity to the appeal of a statesman and labor leader who is so fierce in battle on the side of justice, but, in the words of the poet childhood, "Any child can read apart." The wealthy union man is not so very busy defending his sacred property rights, if any, against the depredations of a good though possibly erring government but that he finds time to appeal to others to relieve distress which can, in a manner of speaking, be seen from his castle window on a clear day unless the blinds are drawn.

The value of the marble beneath the lake on land which he has leased has not yet been stated, but a witness in his behalf estimated the damage at from $2,225,000 or $2,250,000. Neither have there been any disclosures of the actual amount which the millionaire labor leader paid for the leases, although, from the tenor of his appeal on behalf of the mountain children, it seems almost certain that he dealt generously with his simple neighbors in the hills.

In Spite of Reticence The Prices Will be Known

Perhaps that again, is modesty, for a man so touched that the wrecked want of those about him would not be one to boast of his own good deeds, even to prime the pump of pity in others not so near, yet in spite of the senator's reticence these prices will be known one day and his fellow men will be able to appraise his nobility of heart in the mathematical ratio of the amount which he paid the mountaineers for the leases to the amount eventually claimed as his damage.

As for the emancipation of the characters of the children from hurtful, prevalent weakness, it seems almost unnecessary to suggest that the millionaire union man's own presence in their midst should be sufficient to strike the shackles. His career from the status of the poor orphan at 7 to that of union president at 25 and United States senator at 55, with an unconcealed willingness to serve his fellow citizens as president of the

Hobart School Will Give Christmas Program

Royalton—Hobart school will present the following program at the schoolhouse on Thursday evening: "Welcome," Margaret Ritchie; song, "The Snow Is Falling Fast," school; dialog, "A Merry Christmas," Betty Wilcox and Roger Ravey; "A Christmas Riddle," primary grades; "Telephoning Santa," Roberta Ritchie; song, "The North Pole Palace," grades; dialog, "Is There a Santa Claus," Margaret Ritchie and Genevieve Ravey.

"Proved at Last," Bobbie Wilcox; song, "Santa's Heralds," grades; dialog, "Why We Like Santa," boys of lower grades; "The Arrest," Joyce Marcey; song, "Merry Christmas to You," grades; play, "The True Christmas Spirit," upper grades.

"Believe It or Not," William Stillman; song, "The Christmas Story," upper grade girls; dialog, "A Colored Santa," lower grade boys; "Santa's Hired Man," David Redman; "Santa Claus, Jr.," pupils from that worthy citizenship which has distinguished him from the run of men. Not every man would have the courage to brave the leering innuendoes of counsel for the government that the leases were obtained with some view of their value in condemnation proceedings—an intimation which the rich president of the pressmen met, however, with the indisputable reply that he didn't have to sue the government to make a living.

Winter Arrived at 1:22 This Morning

Today is the shortest day of the year. Winter officially arrived at 1:22 this morning and days will now begin to lengthen until June 22 when the sun is at the northern solstice, the longest day of the year. The winter solstice arrives each year in December when the heat received from the sun fails to make good the loss by night. It is not until January or February that gain and loss become equal and the thermometer ceases to show a downward trend.

Two Cars Damaged in Minor Traffic Crash

A taxi cab and car were slightly damaged in a collision about 9:30 each grade: "The Christmas Prayer," Virginia Redman; drill, "The Spirit of Christmas," upper grade girls.

A medley of Christmas carols, played by the orchestra and a visit from Santa Claus closed the program.

Dr. Lauer, who has tested 15,000 drivers in several states, says the person "who is above the average in mentality, physique and personality, or at least is neither brute nor shrimp, Ph.D. nor ignorant, routine bookkeeper or scientific genius, has a pretty good chance of being a good driver."

How Unemployed are Paid Under Job Insurance Laws

Editor's note: About 11,500,000 workers in 31 states and the District of Columbia will become eligible in January to draw unemployment compensation if they lose their jobs. The following article gives the answers of Washington authorities to questions about how these benefits will be paid.)

Washington.—(P)—When a worker eligible under his state's law for unemployment compensation loses his job, how should he go about filing a claim? As soon as he is laid off, he should register at the nearest office of the state employment service, asking for work. When he registers, he also will file a claim for out-of-work benefits. Suppose there is no state employment office in his town? He should ask his employer for the address of the nearest one and how to register. How soon after registration will benefit payments begin? All state laws call for a "waiting period," usually two or three weeks. How much will benefits be? Usually half of full-time pay, but not more than $15 a week. How long will the payments continue?

Major Factors In most states that depends on how much the worker earned in jobs covered by unemployment compensation insurance before filing his claim. In others, it is figured on the time worked on such jobs. A year's work at full wages preceding unemployment would entitle the worker to 12 to 16 weeks unemployment compensation. If a worker is laid off more than once during the year, can he draw benefits the second time? Yes, until his earning credits are used up. Suppose he has only part time work? Nearly all states provide for benefits if employment is reduced to the point where the worker's pay is less than half, or some other specified amount, of his regular pay. A worker employed part time will receive smaller benefits than if he had no work at all. Can a jobless worker be disqualified for benefits? Yes, if he lost his job through some fault of his own. If, for example, he quit through good reason or was discharged for cause, his out-of-work benefits would be postponed for several weeks. Most states would disqualify him for a longer time if he refused a "suitable" job that was open to him. What is a "suitable" job? "Suitable" jobs Generally speaking, a job which a worker is fitted to do under conditions he reasonably could be ex-

Desire for Citizenship Makes Judge Suspicious

Denver.—(P)—A public pension is an "unworthy incentive" for an alien to seek United States citizenship, Judge J. Foster Symes of federal district court told four candidates whose citizenship applications he rejected. One of the four had lived in the United States 60 years and said he only recently discovered he was not a citizen. "It seems odd you would discover it just when Colorado decides to pay a $15 a month old age pension," the judge said. One of the qualifications for a pension is citizenship.

Madison — (P)—The public service commission today suspended the dealer's license of F. V. Cloutier, president of the Vane Securities company, Watford, Wis., and former agent of the E. E. Buckman and company on the ground he had used "unfair and inequitable" business methods. The commission said its action grew out of a complaint about dealings Cloutier had with Mrs. Mattie Trost, elderly widow of Lyons, Wis. Mrs. Trost owned bonds of the Chris Schroeder and Son company. They were among the assets of an estate, of which John Trost, 72, was administrator. The commission said Cloutier, acting as agent for the Buckman investment firm, took Mrs. Trost's bonds with the understanding they were to be converted into cash or other securities, that he failed to live up to his agreement and made a settlement with Mrs. Trost only after a complaint had been filed. "In the case of Mrs. Trost," the suspension order said, "the (Cloutier) not only failed to live up to the high standards of his duties but he treated property in a most careless manner, keeping no record of what he had done with her bonds."

June Gerhartz, 510 N. Oneida street, submitted to an operation for appendicitis Tuesday at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

Green Bay Prophet Predicts Open Winter

Green Bay — (P)—"We're going to have an open winter," Counsellman Barney McGillan, Green Bay's own long-range weather prognosticator, declared last evening. He makes his predictions every year, basing them on conditions prevailing when the sun "crosses the line" of the winter solstice. "We may have plenty of snow and rain and sleet," he continued, "but not much cold weather; maybe a zero day now and then."

Duck Restoration Plan Proposed for Outagamie County

Portion of Taxes Paid Here Should be Spent

Here, Catlin Says

A plan for providing nesting places for migratory water fowl in the public lands north of Shiocton between the Wolf and Embarras rivers, employing federal money collected for such purposes, has been proposed by Mark Catlin, Sr., regional representative for the state conservation commission in the Ninth district.

The money would be taken from collections made under two federal laws, the Duck Stamp bill and the Pittman-Robertson bill.

"I have found that Outagamie county paid in about $5,000 in duck stamps last year," Catlin said today. "This bill was passed expressly for restoration of migratory water fowl and none of the money collected in the county is being spent here. The only projects under way in the state are along the Mississippi river."

In answer to a letter written to Washington, D. C. regarding this proposal, Catlin was told that such funds could not be spent on private lands.

"We don't plan to carry on these projects for restoration of water fowl on private lands," he explained today. "There are thousands of acres of state and county lands north of Shiocton which could be used. The pot holes could be lowered and made into breeding places for ducks."

Under the Pittman-Robertson bill, all taxes on arms and ammunitions are devoted to the restoration of water fowl. It is understood that over three million dollars was collected under this bill last year in the United States," Catlin said.

If the county could obtain three or four thousand dollars for this project, a "good-sized crew of men could be put to work in the country north of Shiocton," he stated.

bers and will meet with the views of the proponents."

The wage-hour measure already has passed the senate.

A fourth segment of the administration program—government reorganization—was stated by Barkley today for senate action immediately after debate on the anti-lynching bill, which the senate has agreed to begin Jan. 6.

The latter measure, a point of controversy between the north and the south for years, may encounter a southern filibuster, as it did at the start of the special session.

Regional planning bills, also on the administration's special session program, are pending before house and senate committees. They would establish agencies similar to the Tennessee Valley authority, with power to undertake dam construction and similar projects. Leaders, however, expect passage of a modified bill merely setting up research agencies.

Tax Revision

Tax revision will be a paramount issue early in the regular session. The widespread clamor for modification or repeal of taxes pressing most heavily on business went unanswered in the special session because a house tax subcommittee failed the task too intricate to finish in a hurry.

The committee made long strides toward revamping the tax structure in a series of tentative decisions, which Barkley predicted could be enacted by Feb. 1.

The principal change proposed would be the tax on undistributed profits from corporations with income up to $25,000 and would lighten its load on firms with larger incomes. The smaller companies would be required, however, to pay a higher normal income tax.

The capital gains tax also would be modified.

Representative O'Connor commented, "the progress made toward tax relief alone would justify the existence of the special session."

DEATHS

JOHN BERG

John Berg, 83, died Tuesday night at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Sylvester Plopper, Hilbert, after an illness of several days. Survivors include the widow, one daughter, Mrs. Plopper, one son, Charles Chilton, eight grandchildren and twelve great grandchildren.

Born in Mosel, Sheboygan county, Oct. 20, 1854, Mr. Berg was married Jan. 21, 1875, to Caroline Schwalenberg of Rantoul. He was a resident of Brillion for 10 years and had lived in Rantoul for the last six years. Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Plopper home and at 1:30 at Brillion Lutheran church. The Rev. M. Sauer will be in charge and burial will take place in the Lutheran cemetery at Brillion.

Status of Legislation

As Extra Session Ends

Washington —(AP)— This was the status of President Roosevelt's legislative program at the end of the special congressional session:

Farm—Passed senate and house and sent to a conference committee.

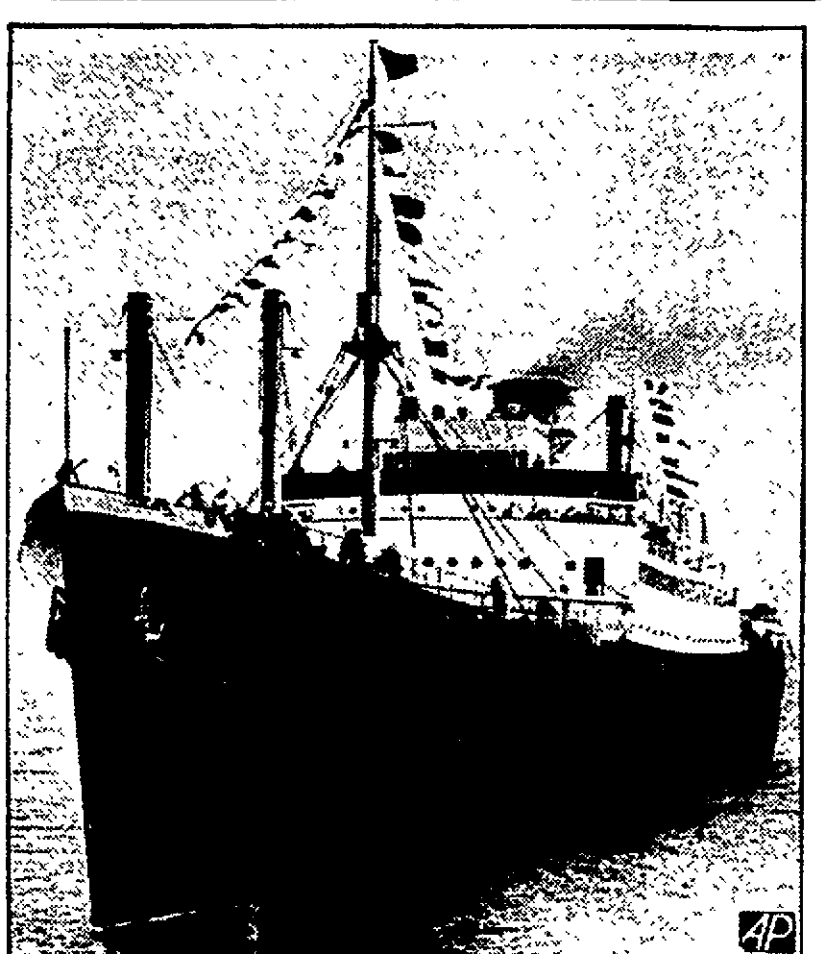

Wage-hour—House returned it to labor committee, action which leaders described as tantamount to killing the bill.

Government reorganization —Awaiting senate action.

Regional planning — Still under study by senate and house committees.

Anti-trust — No legislation introduced.

Housing — Passed senate and house and sent to a conference committee.

LINER COLLIDES IN NORTH SEA

The American liner City of Hamburg, of the United States Lines, radioed the lines' offices in Hamburg that she was proceeding to a nearby port after a collision in the North Sea with an unidentified vessel. Apparently no one was injured.

ed the subject by telling of his conference earlier in the day with Frank R. Phillips, president of the Duquesne Light company of Pittsburgh, and William H. Taylor, president of the Philadelphia Electric company.

They had agreed, he said, that the federal government had not interfered with their industry in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh, but that fear was making it difficult for them to get money for needed expansions.

This fear, the president added, had been caused by a small minority of industry, which sought to give the impression the government was attacking all utilities.

Fears Associates

Mr. Roosevelt then told reporters, crowded about his desk, of a Philadelphia manufacturer who he said had recently called on him and expressed approval of legislation regulating hours and wages.

The president said he asked if the manufacturer would tell the country over the radio of his views. "Oh, no," he quoted the industrialist. "My directors would not let me."

His caller, the president added, explained his fear was not of the government, but of his associates.

The chief executive said he had a similar experience a few days later with a New England tool manufacturer, whose product is sold largely in rural areas, who said he favored crop stabilization legislation.

The attitude of hesitancy, the president commented, was fostered by a large percentage of the newspapers.

Asked what the newspapers had to gain by creation of fear, the president replied he had been wondering about that and so had most of the country.

Youths Who Stole Oats Fined by Judge Ryan

Clarence Lehman and Robert Christensen, Bear Creek, were fined $10 and costs each with an alternative of 20 days in the county detention camp by Judge Thomas H. The youths, who were arrested by county officers Monday, were also ordered to make restitution.

the gunboat Sacramento were in the harbor of the city, which is 290 miles north of Shanghai.

Reports that 30,000 Japanese troops had left Shanghai for an unknown destination and that 20 transports were ready for additional troops gave impetus to fears that Tsingtao, as well as other of China's coastal cities, would be attacked.

The Japanese planes, apparently making a reconnoitering flight, disappeared shortly and had not returned later in the day. Tension caused by their appearance, however, remained high.

Dormitories Burned

Chinese set fire to dormitories connected with the cotton mills. Authorities reported that they intended to resist Japanese to the utmost in case of an attack.

A Japanese army spokesman announced he "hoped" Japanese would capture Hangchow, seaport south of Shanghai, before New Year's day, and expressed the wish that Chinese would withdraw from the city to prevent possible destruction of its famous religious structures.

United States authorities at Shanghai and Tokyo notified Japanese that a flag-decorated train carrying 300 foreign refugees, some

Police to Charge Four Pickets With Resisting Officer

New London—Warrants were being prepared by New London police today charging four strikers at the Hamilton and Sons Canning plant with resisting an officer during a fracas Monday morning when sheriff's deputies moved a carload of coal past pickets into the plant. Other warrants may be issued, police said.

A reduced number of pickets yesterday took refuge from the cold in the 1-car garage of Herbert Senstock on the lot adjoining the factory.

Musicians local 300 yesterday announced a benefit dance for the strikers to be held at the Bowers pavilion Monday, Dec. 27. Five union bands will provide continuous music in modern and old time tempo.

Britain Orders More Troops to Hong Kong Colony

Also Delivers New Protest to Japanese Government

London —(AP)— The war office announced today that the British garrison at Hong Kong would be strengthened as the government dispatched the sixteenth protest it has made to Japan since the outbreak of the Far Eastern conflict.

Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, British ambassador to Tokyo, was instructed to protest a Japanese attack on and seizure of a Chinese custom vessel in territorial waters off the British colony of Hong Kong, Dec. 11.

The double action followed a two and a half hour review of the Oriental situation by the cabinet this morning, and yesterday's assertion from Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain in the house of commons that Japan should not be deceived by British patience.

The troopship Dunera prepared to leave Southampton to take aboard the Second battalion of Royal Scots at Bombay who will go to Hong Kong, lying off Canton in South China which reports have indicated the Japanese will attack shortly with a major offensive. The Royal Scots were scheduled to reach their new post Jan. 28.

The ambassador was told also to ask assurances that Japanese henceforth would respect Hong Kong and its territorial waters.

A reliable informant said a Japanese vessel, outside the territorial waters, fired on a Chinese boat which was beached. Then Japanese sailors entered the waters by motor boats.

Samp in Attack Upon Proposed Coalition

Milwaukee —(AP)— Edward J. Samp, chairman of the G. O. P. voluntary state committee, wrote a letter to that group Dec. 7 in which he attacked a proposed coalition movement in Wisconsin and supported building a militant Republicanism. It was revealed here today.

The coalition movement proposes to endorse five candidates for the five constitutional state offices in combating the LaFollette-Socialist alliance.

"A coalition movement to beat LaFollette (the governor) would give him the best opportunity of saying the money bags of the Democratic and Republican parties were united against him," Samp said in his letter. "This would be all the campaign argument he would need in making an effective campaign, and it would appeal to the voters of Wisconsin."

Samp wrote that he did not attend the coalition conference in Madison Nov. 20, but that his report on it came from an "unbiased and unprejudiced observer."

Favor Deletion of Wage Scale Clause From Housing Bill

Provision Inserted by 50 To 17 Senate Vote Before Passage

Washington —(AP)— Senator Wagner (D-N.Y.) predicted today house and senate conferees on the administration's housing bill would delete a provision that the labor department fix a wage scale for workers engaged in the contemplated residential building program.

The provision, suggested by Senator Lodge (R-Mass.), was inserted yesterday by the senate, 50 to 17, after Republican Leader McNary forced a roll call vote.

A few minutes later the senate passed the bill 66 to 4. Those voting against it were Borah (R-Idaho), Frazier (R-N. D.), Lodge (R-Mass.), and Townsend (R-Del.). The house bill was approved Saturday.

Wagner said Lodge's wage scale amendment would be "almost impossible" to carry out.

Involve Delay

"The department of labor would have to take into consideration the prevailing wages paid in every community in which there was FHA insured construction," he asserted. "This would involve considerable delay, when the object of the program is to get housing construction moving rapidly."

The New York senator indicated that the joint committee appointed to compose differences between house and senate bills would consider a proposal that labor and contractors agree on a wage scale.

Wagner said the committee probably would not meet before Jan. 3. Senate conferees are Wagner, Bulkley (D-Ohio), Hitchcock (D-S. D.), Townsend (R-Del.), and Steiwer (R-Ore.). House conferees are Representatives Steagall (D-Ala.), Goldsborough (D-Md.), Reilly (D-Wis.), Wolcott (R-Mich.), and Fish (R-N. Y.).

Little Controversy

Wagner said he believed there would be little controversy over other points. He predicted an agreement could be reached "within an hour."

The LaFollette amendment adopted by the senate to bring farm homes within the FHA insurance provision may stand as a conferees said. It would require certification by the secretary of agriculture that the farm is capable of yielding a return sufficient to pay off the mortgage.

Under terms of the house legislation, it would be possible to buy a $6,000 house for a down payment of as little as 10 per cent. Interest and insurance charges would be cut to 5 1/2 per cent for smaller homes and 5 1/2 per cent on those above the $6,000 classification.

The FHA would be allowed to insure as much as 80 per cent of the mortgages on multi-family rental projects.

The modernization and repair section of the national housing act would be revised to permit the FHA to underwrite loans for such work up to $2,500.

Robbery Suspect Hangs Himself in Dane County Jail

Was Awaiting Lie Detector Test in Connection With Holdup

Madison —(AP)— Jacob Weirich, 49, awaiting a lie detector test in connection with the robbery of two Rock county farmers five years ago, hanged himself in the Dane county jail today.

Weirich's body, suspended from the cell bars by an electric light cord, was found about 11:30 a. m. by Neils Wasley, trusty, who was carrying food to the prisoner. The jailer, Andrew Serstad, said Weirich was alive at breakfast time.

Coroner Edward A. Fischer said after preliminary investigation that Weirich apparently committed suicide. The light cord in the "solitary" cell had been pulled from the socket.

Weirich was held under $10,000 bond in municipal court at Janesville Dec. 15 for preliminary hearing Jan. 6 on his plea of innocent to a charge of armed assault and robbery. He was brought to Madison by Sheriff James Croake for the lie detector test which had been scheduled for this afternoon.

Accused of Robbery

Weirich was accused of complicity in the robbery July 31, 1932, of Matt Smith, 69, and Dan McCanna, 74, Rock county farmers living near Beloit. The robbers took $2,100 in Liberty bonds and $130 in cash from Smith and $5 from McCanna.

Rock county officials named Arthur Danks and Hollie Chipwood as Weirich's accomplices. Chipwood committed suicide in the Richland Center jail in 1933 and Danks is serving a 30-year sentence in state prison for a Richland county robbery.

Shortly after Weirich's arrest, Sheriff Croake announced the suspect admitted he met Danks in a Beloit hotel in 1932 and later cashed some of the stolen bond coupons at the First National bank of Baraboo. The sheriff said he believed Weirich drove the robbers' car. Weirich's home was near Baraboo.

Anti - LaFollette Leader Is Seeking Aid for Coalition

Campbell Attacks 'Dictatorial Methods of State Administration'

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison — The generalissimo of Wisconsin's newest political movement, the Republican-Democratic coalition against the LaFollette state administration, visited the capital over the weekend and announced publicly that the leaders of the organization are seeking contributions of money and volunteer organizers.

William J. Campbell, slight, elderly Oshkosh lumberman who for many years has been a leading member of the Republican leadership in Wisconsin answered criticism of the fusion campaign with the statement that "coalition in Wisconsin can offer the only avenue of escape from dictatorship."

The dictatorship which menaces Wisconsin, according to Campbell and his aides, is the LaFollette state government.

Conceding that the LaFollettes have succeeded in passing some legislation for the good of the people, Campbell added that their methods, however, are dictatorial. "There is no middle ground between representative government and dictatorship, if the people want dictatorship let them amend their constitution."

The LaFollettes, he continued, are just about in the same position as those who would rob a bank and distribute the loot to the poor. "They have a very poor defense," he said.

Wisconsin's leadership in social legislation, he recalled, has always been maintained through democratic methods. Campbell termed the special session of the Wisconsin legislature the climax of Governor LaFollette's iron fist rule.

Calling upon his fellow Republicans to support the union campaign, Campbell maintained that "it is just a clear matter of arithmetic. The majority of Wisconsin voters are conservative and have a right to manage their government." But while there are two conservative parties opposing the minority radical group, he warned, the conservative majority will never have its proper representation at the state capital.

Commission Will Hear Arguments On Freight Rates

State Officials Study Proposed Revision of Charges on Coal

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison — Oral arguments by the railroads and other parties, final preliminary to a general revision of coal freight rates in Wisconsin projected by the state public service commission several months ago, will be heard soon after Jan. 1, according to commission officials.

The coal freight rate revision, termed by the commission and the railroads the most important in the last decade, has been studied by the commission since last summer. It is possible that the decision of the commission will mean a reduction in the prices of coal for both domestic and industrial consumers of coal and electricity. A downward revision of rates will mean much to Fox River Valley manufacturers, particularly the manufacturers of paper and paper products in that area, it was pointed out at original hearings.

One of the principal issues argued during the first hearings last summer was the proposal by the state commission for an abandonment of the "port equalization" principle.

Under this system freight rates on coal from Lake Michigan ports to points more than 40 miles inland are the same regardless of distance. Thus a railroad under the present rate schedule is permitted to charge as much to haul a carload of coal from Sheboygan to Appleton as from Sheboygan to Wausau.

Urging abandonment of the port equalization principle are Wisconsin paper manufacturers, who were represented at original hearings by Earl Bryan, of the Wisconsin Paper and Pulp Manufacturers Traffic association.

Murphy Apparent Victor in Fight Over Commission

Martin Resigns Tax Post, Assuring Governor Of Majority

Lansing, Mich. —(AP)— Governor Frank Murphy appeared to have won today his fight for control of the state tax commission.

Chester M. Martin, rebel Democratic commissioner whose passive resistance has blocked Murphy's plans to reorganize the department, submitted his resignation to be accepted at the governor's pleasure.

Thus Murphy was guaranteed a working majority of two votes in the department's affairs as soon as he accepts the resignation and replaces Martin with an appointee friendly to reorganization plans. John N. Fegan, newest commission member, also is his appointee.

There was little doubt the administration's next step would be again to discharge the 22 employees who constitute the commission's field staff.

Fegan, attempting to seize the chairmanship a month ago, fired all of them but reinstated them quickly when Melville E. McPherson, veteran Republican chairman, obtained a circuit court injunction.

The governor appointed a commission today to study Michigan's tax system and recommend means for achieving stability of state income.

The commission includes Dr. Lent D. Upson, of Detroit, representing the Detroit Bureau of Governmental Research, chairman; Fegan; Albert F. Champney, Detroit, president of the state association of supervisors; Representative M. Clyde Stout, of Ionia, chairman of the house ways and means committee; State Senator George P. McCallum, Ann Arbor; and Clark L. Brody, Lansing, executive secretary of the Michigan State Farm bureau.

In a prepared statement Murphy said the present tax system "not only is 'wanting in the elements of certainty and stability of income for the several units of government but failed to provide a sufficiently equitable distribution of the cost of government according to ability to pay and benefits received."

That poor memories have caused several shoppers some trouble during the last week, in a hurry and with an armful of bundles, a shopper dashed out to his parked car, deposits the bundles and rushes back to the crowded store. When he returns to the car he finds that his first load has disappeared. He reports to the police department only to find that he had put his bundles in a car that looked like his own and that the other motorist, a conscientious one, has brought the bundles to the department.

Poinsettia Most Brilliant Xmas Plant

Needs Moist Atmosphere to Last Longest. Keep It Away From Drafts and Intense Heat.

Poinsettia, Christmas Plant.

When the first poinsettia plant appears in the florist's window the holiday season has arrived. This cheerful red and green shrub is as much a symbol of the season as plum pudding or reindeer.

That it is a foliage and not a flowering plant still confuses some, for the bright red leaves give every impression of a flower, in spite of the fact that close examination proves them the same in size, texture and pattern as the green ones. It is one of the huge euphorbia family, which numbers more than a thousand members.

The poinsettia is a tropical plant, native to Mexico, where it grows wild in tropical climates. The native plant is a huge one, several times the size of our greenhouse varieties, but the latter lack nothing in grace and beauty, and are in fact more beautiful for their restrained growth, and the tender care given them.

Its tropical origin suggests methods of care. It likes warm and humid atmosphere; that is why you see it so often in the kitchen, where it is sometimes kept to prolong its life. Drafts are particularly hateful to it, and cause the brilliant red leaves to fade or turn green or yellow. Keep it well supplied with moisture.

gown give accent to youth. Their fragile petals and delicate perfume complement the wearer and their colors can bring out the beauty of her hair, her complexion and eyes, or the gown she wears.

Miss Velma Talbert, the young lady in the illustration, chose a simple corsage of modish white carnations for her plain black formal gown. Sometimes she wears flaming red blooms or some of the newer two-toned carnations which give the gown an entirely different appearance. Carnations are favored because of their subtle spicy perfume as well as the great number of lovely colors in which they are now available.

Again she wears tiny twin corsages of sweetheart roses in the corners of the neckline, resembling beautiful jeweled clips or she wears a larger corsage at the waistline. Thus by wearing different kinds and colors of flowers in various sizes and shapes of corsages and in different positions on her dress she is able to get a number of effects from the same gown with little expense.

Not only is there a saving in her clothing budget by wearing various corsages on the same basic gown but by wearing fresh flowers appropriately chosen and styled she is always smartly dressed for any occasion.

Decorate Christmas Gifts With Flowers

Carnations, Gardenias, Roses and Holly Are Good Materials for Gay Gift Wrapping.

The Luxury of Flowers Used This Way Cannot Be Surpassed by Artificial Means.

There is almost as much luxury to Christmas wrappings as there is to the gift itself. In a way this is as it should be, for the season is one of good will and feeling, and the idea of obligation at least should not be present.

Here is our chance to express a flare for bright colors and silky ribbon. We are permitted free rein in choosing our decorations at Christmas time.

No holiday custom is more refreshing than to decorate Christmas gifts with flowers, and other living holiday materials. A rosebud tied to a package with dainty ribbon is not only a colorful decoration, but expresses a sentiment more sincere than other types because it is so fragile and fleeting that only at the time of presentation does it have meaning.

There are several flowers to use for this purpose. A gardenia is ideal, because it has such a perfect flower and the foliage is so colorful. A carnation can be had to match any color scheme, the reds and whites probably being most appropriate. Tied to a man's present, it suggests itself for a boutonniere for Christmas eve or day.

Holly leaves with their bright red berries are not new for this purpose, but always attractive, and as brilliantly colored with Christmas cheer as any bright ribbon or crepe paper. Another material of this type is the Jerusalem cherry; it too has bright red berries.

Taxes Due Mar. 1, Treasurer Warns Property Owners

Law Permitting Extension By Affidavit No Longer in Effect

The law which permitted cities to extend the time for payment of taxes to July 1 on the signing of an affidavit, expired with last year's collection. Joseph A. Kov, city treasurer, reminded taxpayers today.

Tax bills will be in the mail Monday and the office of the city treasurer will open from 9 to 12 o'clock in the morning and from 1:15 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon receive payments.

The 1937 legislature did not renew the tax extension law and therefore all taxes become delinquent on March 1 if not paid by that time, the treasurer said. The rate of interest on delinquent taxes was changed and now provides that interest of eight tenths of 1 per cent per month be charged from Jan. 1 until paid. Previously there was a 2 per cent penalty plus interest at 8 per cent a year and fees.

The treasurer asked taxpayers to present original and duplicate bills when paying taxes. If property has been disposed of and the treasurer has not received a record of the transaction, bills should be returned and the treasurer will direct them to the owner.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood — Some time ago 10-year-old Bennie Bartlett, or his musical daddy or both, got an idea.

There had been a profusion of child orchestras—they reasoned—but there'd never been a child orchestra that played in tune. If there had, the Bartletts were at it. He had never heard of it, which amounted to the same thing.

They held auditions, suffered through hundreds of tortured solos on fiddle and horn while ear-cocked mamas beamed. At length they found 14 youngsters who could really play.

"And I mean play," says Papa Bartlett, who can really play too. "Not just saw a violin or toot a horn with gasping noises."

Followed more months of rehearsals, under the exacting baton of Maestro Bennie, whose idol is Benny Goodman and whose creed is Swing. Papa Bartlett (whose name is Arthur) did all the arrangements, plus a bit of quiet beaming too.

Professional perfection realized at last, Bartlett and gang were ready for engagements—such engagements as would not interfere, of course, with schooling. Meaning the movies.

So what happens? Studio people hear a few numbers, see the gang at work, applaud and applaud, and say: "They're too good—if we put 'em on the screen nobody'd believe we weren't dubbing in the sound."

There are times in Hollywood, such as this, when perfection is folly. But the Bartletts, undaunted, are still perfectionists. The condition, they assure me, is but temporary.

Bennie, meanwhile, is continuing his individual film career.

It was partly his inability to obtain musical roles in films that inspired the orchestra's creation.

When Agent Flo Browne, who didn't like child clients, was persuaded to take Bennie she got him first on the air, singing, and then into pictures. But that ended his musical career—on the screen.

Published Two Songs

This abrupt termination of in-four years of age Bennie had "composed" his first song, and the same year he had conducted a band on the stage at Belleville, Kas. He was master of the trumpet, drums and piano, and he could sing and write songs. They just had to do something about it.

The two published songs of Bennie Bartlett, 10, which are in the repertoire of the orchestra, ages 5 to 14, are "Old-Fashioned Mill" and "Hannah." Creation, with Master Bennie, is no hair-tearing struggle.

"Aw," he says, "I can be playing the football outside when all of a sudden an idea hits. But I've gotta run right in and write it down, or I forget. Or I can be humming and singing, just riding along in the car, and all of a sudden it just hits me. But fifteen minutes later, if I don't put it down, it's gone...."

LAST NIGHT'S SCORE
Neenah 32, New London 24.

BY TOM MASTERSON
NEENAH—Staring a 23-point scoring spree in the second half of a fast Northeastern Wisconsin conference case game, the Neenah Red Rockets recorded their second circuit victory in three starts by defeating the hapless New London five, 32 to 24, here Tuesday night.

Neenah did it the hard way. After trailing, 10 to 9, at halftime, during which they turned in a mediocre performance, the Rockets set a grueling pace during the second half, starting their tallying spree half way through the third quarter.

During the final half of the conflict, Neenah showed indications of championship calibre with the New London aggregation doggedly chasing them. The Stacymen, however, gave the Neenah five a run for their money, losing their fourth straight game by a close margin as has been the case in the four preceding tilts.

Kettering High Scorer
Warren Kettering, scrappy Neenah right guard, copped scoring honors, netting three field goals and six free throws, while Captain Jack Hesselman, Neenah pivot, trailed with three baskets and as many gift shots. Krueger, right forward, who received his first assignment of the season last night, helped his teammates to a triumph by sinking two buckets and a free throw.

Mesnick, New London center, led his team in scoring, making a basket and four free throws, while B. Stern, right forward, and D. Stern, right guard, trailed with two baskets each.

With a 4-point lead, Neenah loosed its offensive attack in the final period, but not until B. Stern's field goal had reduced the Rockets' margin to 20 to 18 as the half opened. Krueger lifted in a free throw in two attempts off D. Stern's foul, and Captain Hesselman added another point when Hoier, New London forward, drew a penalty. Kettering sank his third field goal to give Neenah a 6-point lead, but Meinhardt then closed the gap by sinking a gift shot off Harlan Hesselman's foul. D. Stern's field goal reduced Neenah's advantage, but Schmidt lifted in his first basket.

New London refused to relinquish its offensive drive with Meinhardt adding another point, but Haertl scored a 2-pointer. D. Stern then sank a field goal, but Harlan Hesselman's basket and Kettering's two donation shots clinched the victory for Neenah as the game ended.

First Period Slow
The first quarter of the fracas was slow and restricted mostly to penalties. Neenah making their six points on Captain Hesselman's basket and free throw and Kettering's three gift shots. Mesnick's basket and free throw, Hoier's two gift shots and Hammerberg's free throw accounted for New London's six points during that period.

The pace was no faster, in fact a little slower, during the second period, Neenah recording only three points on Captain Hesselman's bucket and Kettering's free throw. New London moved into the lead during the period as the result of baskets by Hoier and Hammerberg.

Krueger opened the scoring in the third period, giving Neenah a 2-pointer, but his field goal was immediately followed by B. Stern's basket. Krueger and Kettering added four more points on a basket each for the Rockets before Meinhardt lifted in a free throw and Mesnick accounted for three points on as many gift shots. Captain Hesselman marked up three more points for Neenah on a free throw and a basket and Kettering added a basket before the quarter concluded.

Rookie Hurlers Dominated N. L. Pitching Scene

Dizzy Dean and Van Mungo, for Stars. Were Biggest Flops

BY SID FEDER
NEW YORK—With all due respect to Mr. Carl Hubbell and the handy little trick he has of winning more ball games than anyone else, the rookies, and particularly 31-year young Jim Turner, were the cream of the National League pitching crop for 1937.

As usual, the league's official flinging records, released today, showed there was pitching galore in the senior circuit. But the old timers, like Hubbell and Hal Schu, and the new ones, like Dizzy Dean and Van Mungo, didn't provide the major portion of evidence. To be sure, the three generally accepted "arrested" elbows in the business were well represented, Hubbell, topping the win-loss record, showed 22 victories against six defeats for a percentage of .733, and was the loop's strikeout king with 159 "kayo" victims, but his earned run average, the barometer by which pitching effectiveness is measured, slipped to 3.19 per nine innings game, compared to his pace-setting 2.41 of 1936.

And Dizzy Dean (big bad boy) Mungo of the Dodgers, although well up in the earned run department, were somewhat less than world beaters in the win-loss columns. In fact, Dizzy was about as useful as a carload of charley horses after July 15, and Mungo not only was finally suspended by "Boiling Boily" Grimes during the campaign, but wound up with a less-than-500 average for games won.

Comparing records, then, to the next job of work done by four rookies, headed by Turner, one half of the "old-man freshman" combination of Boston's baffling Bees. He only led the earned-run averages, allowing 2.38 such tallies per nine innings. At that, he was only a little in front of Cliff Melton, the "other half" of the Giants' great southpaw combination, who wound up with 2.61. Along with them were Russ Bauers, Pittsburgh's promising right-hander, in fourth place with 2.87, and Turner's 31-year old Boston "sidekick," Lou Fette, with 2.88.

All four combined to stand the senior circuit's batsmen on their collective ears. Three of them—Turner, Melton and Fette—won 20 games each; the first rookies to turn in the "double-ten" victory performance since Grover Cleveland Alexander bowed into the big time in 1911.

Milwaukee—Brothers-in-law, Paul Sobody and Edwin Graf, are current tops when it comes to scoring on the Marquette university basketball team. Sokody, a center, has tallied 34 points and Graf, forward, 26 points. They live at Elgin, Ill.

The Year In Sports: II—Stanford Dominates Basketball As Center Jump Is Eliminated

BY ORLO ROBERTSON

New York—Basketball, the game Dr. James Naismith fashioned from a peach basket and a soccer ball 46 years ago, underwent one of its most radical changes this year when the center jump was eliminated.

The rules committee legislated against the jump system of putting the ball into play at the start of each period and after a goal had been scored with the hopes it would do away with some of the advantage held by tall players.

Early results this season have shown that it not only has done that but has speeded up the game until now a team's success may well depend on its reserve power. No longer can five or six men step through a game at top speed, as there is no letup while the ball is being returned to the center circle, as in the past.

Curbs Tall Players
As an additional curb on tall players, the rules committee prohibited a player from reaching above the basket and tipping the ball out.

The committee also attempted to clarify the blocking and screening rule which has been interpreted differently in various sections. It ruled that a player is entitled to any unoccupied spot on the floor providing he takes the position three feet away from an opposing player and does not take the position with intentions of blocking a man with or without the ball.

Pitt, Oklahoma A. and M. Repeat
Outstanding in the nationwide competition that saw only two major conference champions retain their titles was the high-powered Stanford quintet led by sensational Hank Luisetti.

Pittsburgh, annually one of the best in the East, again won the Eastern intercollegiate conference crown while Oklahoma A. and M. repeated in the Missouri Valley, Illinois and Minnesota tied for the Big Ten title with Washington and Lee taking the Southern, Kentucky the Southeastern, Pennsylvania the Eastern intercollegiate league, Montana State the Rocky Mountain and Southern Methodist the Southwest.

Kansas, dominant in the Big Six, yielded a half-portion of the circuit's honors to Nebraska. With the famous McPherson Oilers splitup the Denver Safeways exhibited plenty of speed and height to win the National A. A. U. championship.

M. U. Is Assured of Kickers Because of A 'Boots', VanHoof

Milwaukee—If there is anything in a name, then Coach Paddy Driscoll of the Marquette university football team ought to be well-fortified with kickers next fall. Included among the 50 freshman numeral winners at Marquette this year are Albert Boots and Francis Van Hoof, both of Little Chute.

Kaukauna: Little Nine conference schools ended the basketball season with Seymour winner in the Western division and Denmark in the Eastern. They were scheduled to play a 3-game series for the league title.

Feb. 20—Appleton was defeated by Manitowish and ousted from first place in the Valley conference cage race. Leon Toonen won the 118-pound novice title at Green Bay; golden gloves meet; 40 Appleton teams were entered in the state Legion bowling tourney here next month.

Feb. 22—A. Weisgerber and F. Fries took over first place in the Valley pin tourney doubles with a 1,244 total; Lawrence volleyballers and wrestlers won from Milwaukee Teachers; but the swimmers lost; Older Boy cagers at the Y were playing their final games; St. John, Menasha, and St. Therese, Appleton, were tied in the Catholic Boys conference.

Feb. 23—Seymour won the first game of the Little 9 playoff with Denmark, 18 to 15; 209 teams were entered in the Legion state pin tourney; Y.M.C.A. volleyballers split even with teams from Oshkosh; Hopfenspergers won eighth honors in the Class A team event of the women's bowling tourney.

Feb. 24—Ponds and Kimberly club were favored in the Kimberly amateur tournament; Lawrence walloped Ripon five by a 42 to 29 score here; Joe Carr, promotional director of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, was reported coming here on Feb. 28 to discuss Class D ball.

Feb. 25—White Sox won the girls volleyball title at the Y.M.C.A.; Kimberly and Kaukauna High school officials were planning for their respective district cage meets.

Feb. 26—The Post-Crescent announced it would hold a Fisherman's party on April 27; Seymour defeated Denmark for the Little Nine cage title, 21 to 17. The district A.A.U. cage tourney opened at the Y; Pond Sports won first honors in the Kimberly cage tourney.

Feb. 27—Appleton high cagers lost to Oshkosh, their third defeat of the season; Menasha upset Neenah, 33 to 24; A. Lillie rolled a 684 in the Kimberly Booster league.

THE INDIANS AT WORK
Stanford's high-scoring quintet dominated basketball circles in 1937. The team beat Southern California, 61-49, in the game during which this picture was taken. Background, in dark uniform, is Hank Luisetti, the Indians' star forward, who has scored 1,131 points in college games and is back for more this season.

Oshkosh Stars At Home Tonight

Play Original Celtics; Squads Clash Thursday at Green Bay

Oshkosh—Fans of the professional variety of basketball, given only newspaper accounts of their favorite midwestern cage team in the past week are expected to turn out in large numbers, Wednesday evening, for the "homecoming" battle of the Oshkosh All Stars with the Original Celtics to be played at 9:10 o'clock at the Recreational gymnasium.

A crowd similar to the size of that which saw the game here with the New York Renaissance is expected. Fans throughout the Fox valley will come here for the game as the fame of the All Stars has spread far and wide and basketball enthusiasts of other communities are anxious to see the All Stars in action.

AT BAY THURSDAY
Green Bay—Art Mansfield, Madison, and Eddie Kotal, Stevens Point, will be referee and umpire, respectively, when the Original New York Celtics meet the Oshkosh All Stars at West gymnasium Thursday evening.

Mansfield has handled a number of All-Star games, and Kotal also has done considerable pro basketball work, assuring fans that the game will be well handled.

The Lions club committee in charge is working overtime to see that all arrangements for the big contest are completed, and they aim to make the event the season's outstanding basketball show locally. Both teams are marvelous ball handlers and shooters, the rivalry between them is keen, and both are driving for the national professional basketball championship.

Seek Showdown On Compensation

Football Pirates Force Issue Under Pennsylvania Law

Pittsburgh—A rough problem—compensation for injured professional football players—headed today toward a legal showdown in Pennsylvania.

The management of the Pittsburgh Pirates expressed surprise on receipt of a letter from the chief of the claim division of the state workmen's compensation fund, asking compensation to four players injured last October in a game with the Chicago Bears.

Byron Haines and Tuffy Thompson were carried off the field with injured backs, Johnny Reed had a deep gash in his right leg and Ed Karpowich's rib was fractured.

But the Pirate office received yesterday a letter from G. Rody Shew, chief of the claim division denying medical expenses because the players did "not meet with an injury while in the course of employment."

The Pirate office declared numerous other players had received compensation for injuries inflicted during a game and Martin A. Flanagan, club attorney, said he would appeal the decision to a workmen's compensation referee.

The attorney asserted the Pirates carry the usual state compensation insurance and pay a high premium because of the nature of the game.

Chuters Wallop Hortonville Five

Claims New Skater Better, Prettier Than Sonja Henie

Fight Manager Introduces New 'Queen of The Ice'

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK—It was a moral certainty that nothing so obvious as the current winter sports hysteria could long escape the attention of James J. Johnston, known affectionately as the Boy Bandit.

Yesterday the dapper, dapper Jimmy owed his social entire solely to the fact that he was the manager of Bob Pastor, a heavyweight prizefighter of dubious ability, and that he was in process of being sued for a total of $60,000 for defamation of character by two members of the New York State Boxing commission.

Today that was nothing more than a chapter out of the Johnston past. Jimmy, as ever in step with the times, was the manager and exclusive representative of as pretty and accomplished a girl figure skater as ever came out of Czechoslovakia.

'Queen Of Ice'
Vera Hrubá is her name, and Johnston, never a man to stint on his adjectives, has billed her modestly as "queen of the ice," and he says the skating fans of America "have acclaimed her a prettier girl and a more talented skater than Sonja Henie."

As a matter of fact, Vera, who came tripping into the Johnston office to sign the contract right while Jimmy was trying desperately to shoo a couple of fight writers out of the side door, does possess much more than a pretty face.

In 41 games with non-conference opponents, Big Ten quintets had to their credit 31 victories against 10 setbacks, with Purdue, Minnesota, Ohio State and Michigan remaining undefeated. The conference aggregations scored 1,690 points while permitting opponents 1,203.

Purdue's "powerhouse" holds the high scoring honor with 235 points in five straight victories, Michigan, which has won five games while scoring 210, has held opponents to 139 points.

Iowa Defeated
Iowa was bounced out of the undefeated class last night, bowing to Toledo 59 to 39. Iowa managed to stay even with the speedy Toledo team for only two minutes, after which the Rockets, with brilliant passing and a strong defensive set, stayed in front all the way. Iowa previously had won four straight tilts.

Indiana lost its second game of the season, being turned back by the speedy Bradley Tech team of Peoria, Ill. 50 to 38. The Tech squad, with Dar Hutchins engaging 18 points, led at the half 20 to 16, stayed off a Hoosier rally, and won comfortably.

Michigan continued its winning ways, defeating Rochester university 50 to 29 for a fifth straight triumph. Big Jake Townsend, sharp shooting forward and captain of the Wolverines, bagged 14 points, while Ed Thomas and Jim Rae shared second honors with a dozen points each.

Tonight's schedule: Wheaton at Chicago; Iowa at Michigan State, East Lansing, Mich.; Purdue at Denver university.

LITTLE CHUTE—The Little Chute American Legion basketball team won its third straight game in the Outagamie County league last night when it defeated Hortonville here, 54 to 31. The invading five was bothered by the slippery floor of the Legion hall and didn't get started until the second half.

The Legion started fast with O. Bongers taking the tipoff on the free throw lane and sinking a one-handed shot. Poole counted from the side of the court for the Hortonville five to make the score 2-0 but then P. Wildenberg, N. Van Dyke and E. Versteegen scored goals in succession for the Chuters while Reynolds was counting for Hortonville. A scoring spree by Hortonville and the game ended 54 to 31 for the Legion.

Poole and Rynders led the invaders on offense while Reynolds was the defensive star. For Little Chute, P. Wildenberg, O. Bongers, T. Jansen, and H. Van Dyke played the best ball for the Chuters.

The opening game of the evening saw the Little Chute Merchants downing the Gustman Chevies of Kaukauna and Little Chute, 24 to 14. Both teams were scoreless in the first period but the Merchants led 8 to 6 at the half.

In the third quarter there was little scoring but the Chuters re-

Draft Ordinance to License Bookmakers

Chicago—Operators of horse race betting establishments, better known as bookmakers and classified as gamblers, will enjoy the status of legitimate businessmen if the city council approves an ordinance sent to it today.

The measure legalizes and licenses "par-mutuel brokers" who accept commissions to telegraph wagers to horse race tracks. The council finance committee approved it yesterday.

Mayor Edward J. Kelly estimated the ordinance would raise $2,000,000, to be used to help wipe out a $2,730,000 deficit in the 1938 budget created by a provision to restore pay cuts to city employees.

It provides for license fees ranging from $5,000 in the loop to $1,000 in outlying sections. Handbooks would be prohibited within 500 feet of a church, school, or store catering to school children.

Ralph Greenleaf in Another Cue Victory

New York—Ralph Greenleaf, who has held the world pocket billiards title 15 times during his long career, has proved once more in his latest title defense that it takes a good man to beat him.

His challenger, Irving Crane of Rochester, was far from good enough in the 1,500-point challenge match which ended last night and went down 1,500 to 350.

Gridders Nearing Peak For New Year's Battles

Alabama Stops at New Orleans on Way to Pacific Coast

B A R SIGHTSEEING White Takes Plane to Join Colorado Team At Fort Worth

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 22.—The Gridders, who are going to keep their Pacific coast champions practice confined to their own squad.

Allison turned down a suggestion that his team, which is preparing for its Rese Bowl date with Alabama, scrimmage against the Eastern All Stars, who are training at Berkeley for the East-West game.

Instead the Bears scrimmaged lightly against reserves and freshmen yesterday. Allison pointed out that a scrimmage with the talented easterners would be a risky business at this stage of the game.

Assorted groups of "Spartans," "Crimson Tides" and "Mountaineers" were out on the highways and byways headed for Bowl games, while other groups dug in near the scene of the cowhide carnivals yesterday.

New Developments

Here's a roundup of other late developments:

Rose Bowl—Alabama's boys stopped off in New Orleans on their way to Pasadena long enough to appear as wallflowers at a cocktail party. Said gangling Hayward Sanford, the end who booted the Tide into the Bowl with timely field goals, "I don't know much about place kicking." This should knock 'em in the aisles at Tulane and Vanderbilt, beaten by Sanford's tide.

Sugar Bowl—Bernie Moore, Louisiana State coach, was mildly "scratched" with his team's first scrimmage for the Santa Clara encounter. "They looked okay," said Moore, "considering it's the first real work they've done since the Tulane game."

Santa Clara's hopes for victory against the Tigers slumped with the news that an X-ray of fullback Everett Fisher's leg showed an incomplete fracture of a small bone.

The news upset the eleven, otherwise in fairly good shape, as it went through one of its last drills on the coast.

Cotton Bowl—Coach Jimmy Kitts, with Colorado's All America "Whizzer" White in mind, forced his backs to top speed against the Rice line yesterday. He made his ace, "Ernie" Linn and Ollie Cordill, run their tongues out battering the line. Then he told Red Vickers, Johnny Neece and Doug Sullivan, "Other backs, to outdo Linn and Cordill."

The line, inspired by Kitts' whispered instructions, stopped all five. Kitts hopes they can turn the trick against Colorado and White at Dallas, New Year's day.

White on Way

White was expected to join the Colorado team at Fort Worth, Tex., today after winning a Rhodes scholarship in San Francisco Monday. The Whizzer wired Coach "Bunny" Oakes, "I need a workout," just before he took a plane for Fort Worth.

Orange Bowl—Charlie Bachman, coach of Michigan State, which meets Auburn New Year's day is a bit perturbed about tales of the Plainsmen's might. "Too much speed," said Bachman when his team went through Atlanta, Ga. but added: "We have a fine ball club."

The Spartans will work out for four days at Gainesville, Fla., before going to Miami for the game. A San Bowl-West Virginia's squad of 24 will enroute for El Paso, Tex., and the Eastern All Stars Tech in the San Bowl. Coach Marshall Glenn barred sightseeing trips and other entertainment prior to the game and warned his players they might expect several stiff workouts this week. Glenn was fearful his team might be hampered by the change of climate.

At El Paso officials expected a crowd of 12,000 and workmen were busy enlarging the stadium. Texas Tech, enjoying a week's vacation, was in top condition.

Described by Coach Andy Kerr of Colgate as "a good, old-fashioned club with plenty of balance," the Eastern All Stars started work with a light drill at Kew-Forest, San Francisco. The Western team also was on the field. The Eastern squad took up permanent quarters at Berkeley.

ILLINI COACH AND CAPTAIN

Defense of a half interest in the Big Ten championship is the problem of Coach Doug Mills and Capt. Louis Boudreau of the University of Illinois basketball team. Mills is starting his second season as Illini coach.

Parents Want Don Budge To Turn Professional

OKLAND, CALIF.—(U)—The parents of Don Budge, World tennis champion who wants to remain an amateur long enough to defend the Davis cup, urged him today to "turn professional and reap some material benefit from years of hard work."

This unusual advice emanated from the family kitchen, where Mrs. John Budge was doing dishes. It found the racket star on an exhibition tour of Australia.

"When Danny returns home, his father's going to give him a good talking to," Mrs. Budge told an interviewer. "We're going to try and convince him that the wise thing to do would be to turn professional and reap some material benefit from years of hard work. He has put into his tennis."

"We've always kept our opinions in the background, but now we think it's time we spoke up."

Quickly Mrs. Budge added: "We may talk ourselves blue in the face—but the final decision will be up to him."

That decision, sports prognosticators estimate, would make a difference of $100,000 in two seasons for his bank account. The red-head won the Wimbledon and national championships this year and led the American team to recapture the Davis cup for the first time in 10 years.

Budge, rated the nation's No. 1 athlete of 1937 in a poll of sports editors, so far has rejected professional offers.

But, said Mrs. Budge, whose husband is a printer:

"Neither Don nor we are any too well off, and there seems to be no sense to pass up such an opportunity."

Stanford Mentor Picks Bears to Win Bowl Tilt

Pasadena, Calif.—(U)—Claude (Tiny) Thornhill, who has guided Stanford in three Rose games, today picked California to defeat Alabama in the New Year's day contest.

"Alabama seems to always have a good team. But—

Thornhill paused. Maybe he was thinking the Crimson Tide's Kilgore-Warren combination can be as devastating as the Dixie Howell-Don Hutson duo which wrecked his Stanford, 29 to 13, in the 1935 Bowl game.

"I believe California has too much power for Alabama," he concluded. "I'll choose the Bears, anyhow."

BASKETBALL

By CHARLES R. (CHICK) DAVIES
Duquesne University Coach

MAKE OUT-OF-BOUNDS PLAYS SCORING PLAYS

Team's Best Fasser Should Handle Ball from Side Lines While Men on Court Aid Each Other in Picking Off

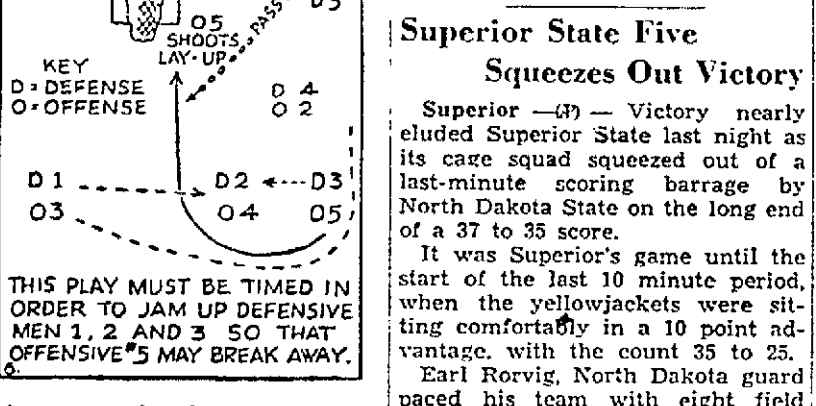

UNLIKE football, basketball only can use set plays at certain times. When the ball is moving and the players are running around the court, it is ridiculous to assume that a set play can be worked out. Set plays only can be executed when the ball is stopped or not moving. This occurs only a few times during the course of a game and the set plays then performed are therefore referred to as stop plays.

Handling of the ball at all other times is referred to as play formations. Many coaches employ these set play formations and for that reason fans are erroneously led to believe that they are watching a set play formation. At Duquesne we do not use set play formations but do employ a few stop plays. These stop plays are worked from out-of-bounds, after a jump ball from scrimmage, and immediately after a missed foul shot. For the present, we are concerned with set plays from out-of-bounds position. The other situations will be discussed in subsequent articles.

A ball given to a team on an out-of-bounds is essentially a stop play opportunity. There are four out-of-bounds positions, two under the baskets and two on the sides of the court. The diagrams below deal with situations under the baskets and with sidelines out-of-bounds.

The offensive man taking the ball out of bounds should be the best passer on the team. He should be a clever player, capable of grasping the situation at a glance and must know how to stall until his men have stationed themselves correctly. Naturally, the success of these plays depends upon timing and the ability of the man stationed out-of-bounds to pass accurately to an open teammate. Whatever the offense does on these plays the ball must not be lost at any cost. If the play should not click for some reason the ball should be thrown in to one of the men stationed in the back court.

The man taking the ball out of bounds should throw the ball to a man who has shaken his defensive opponent and is, therefore, in a position to score.

As soon as time is declared in O5 begins running around O4, drawing his defensive opponent, D3, with him. Defensive O3 runs into D2 and O4. At the same time O3 starts running to the right around O4 and around O5's original position on the floor. Defensive O1 follows O3 laterally across the floor and likewise is run into D2 and O4 causing a jam and throwing the defense into confusion. If the play works correctly O5 then is open and continues down under the hoop for a lay-up shot.

Another play that works from the same alignment has O1 passing to O2 who has a quick set shot. Defensive O4 has his back to the ball and therefore cannot tell where the pass is going. If O2 is clever he conceals the intent of the play from D4 by keeping his eyes and face on a position other than where the ball will go.

Out-Of-Bounds On The Sides

The out-of-bounds play from the sides is similar to the above diagrammed maneuver in that the offensive club also tries to throw the defense into confusion by switching

CREEKERS HERE TONIGHT

Town Taxis of Appleton will attempt to win their third straight game in the County league at 8:30 this evening at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium, when they oppose the Black Creek Merchants. A victory by the Taxis will allow them to keep pace with the Chautauque.

The Taxis will go into tonight's game somewhat handicapped by injuries. They claim that Ken Slatery hasn't recovered from a broken blood vessel in his foot and that Earl McKeefry also is ailing. Black Creek is composed largely of former Shiocton High school players.

A second game in league play will be staged at Seymour this evening with the Kaukauna Knights of Columbus the opponent. The Seymour club is primed to get back into the victory column after last week's defeat at the hands of Little Chute. A couple grade school teams will play the preliminary game and a German band will be on hand to furnish music.

700 Students to Begin Studies in New School Jan. 3

Classes Will Begin 10 Minutes Later in Morning

Menasha—Approximately 700 pupils of the Menasha Junior High school, senior high school and vocational school will move into the new high school building on Monday, Jan. 3. Although the gym and auditorium will not be completed by that date, the class rooms will be substantially completed and ready for occupancy.

The school day will begin at 8:10. This is 10 minutes later than has been customary and will allow sufficient time for the additional classes to the new building. At noon, classes will be dismissed at 11:45. This will permit pupils to pass through the congested uptown districts before the factories open for their noon hour.

A full hour and a half has been provided at noon, thus giving additional time for the children to go home to lunch. In the afternoon school will start at 1:10 and continue until 3:45.

In order to make the new arrangements work smoothly on the opening day, B. Younger, superintendent of schools, conducted the teachers to their new quarters Monday afternoon. Tuesday and today, the entire student body became acquainted with its future home. Small groups under the supervision of members of the faculty were conducted through the classrooms.

A. J. Armstrong, principal, has assigned lockers to all pupils. When the doors are swung open at 8 o'clock on Jan. 3, the pupils will dispose of their things in their lockers and go directly to their first period class.

Otherwise there will be very few changes. Sizes of classes will be reduced and wherever necessary and possible additional sections will be arranged. An effort is being made to have as much teacher attention for each child as possible, according to Mr. Younger.

"Although the building will not be entirely completed, the student body is thrilled that the time is near for distant when they will be housed in one building and under one roof," Mr. Younger said.

Dinner-Dance Will Be Held During VFW District Conference

Neenah—A joint dinner and dance will be held during the Sixth district conference of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Sunday evening, Jan. 15, at the Eagles hall. It was announced today.

The Nicolet post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be host to the conference and representatives from posts at Oshkosh, Menasha, Fond du Lac, Sheboygan, West Bend, Chilton and Orono will be present. William Campbell is general chairman of the conference, and Mrs. Campbell is general chairman of the auxiliary conference and Mildred Thornton is subchairman.

The conference for post members in the district will be held at 1 o'clock in the afternoon at the city hall, while the auxiliary conference will be at 1 o'clock at the Eagles hall.

Kaukauna Cagers Hold Final Drill Before Christmas

Squad Will Meet Alumni Dec. 30 and New London Jan. 7

Kaukauna—With their next encounter scheduled for Friday, Jan. 7, at New London, Coach Paul E. Little's cagers ran through a light drill yesterday afternoon in the high school gym, and this afternoon will finish their pre-Christmas practice. The alumni will be met in a game here on Thursday, Dec. 30.

Little devoted some time last night to offense, giving the ball to the offensive side and letting them work it in. The regulars again had Vancouver and Peterson at the boards, Alger at center and Lambert and Giordana at guards. Sherman Powers, B. squad center, was promoted to the first squad.

Outscore Opponents

The Kaws have outscored their opponents by one point, 74 to 73, in their games so far this season, although they have defeated only St. Mary's of Menasha, 35 to 24. Two conference games have been dropped to Menasha, 25 to 30, and to Shawano, 24 to 19. Both of these games were decided in the conference play, however, and the Kaws promise to be a threat when play is resumed in the Northeastern conference after the holidays.

In their three contests the Kaws have dropped through 26 field goals as compared to opponents 27, have made 22 free throws compared to opponents 19, and have committed 42 fouls while opponents violated the rules 45 times.

So far this year the Kaws have had 12 opportunities from the foul line in each game and their 22 successful attempts give them a percentage of only 40 per cent.

Kaukauna's leading scorer so far is Cliff Vanvenhoven, forward and only returning veteran from last year, who has made nine field goals and two free throws for 20 points. Bill Peterson, another forward, is second with seven field goals and three free throws for 17 points; Bill Alger, lanky center, follows with 13 points on four field goals and five gift shots, with Leonard Lambie, guard, fourth with 12 points on five field goals and two charity tosses.

The scoring records:

	FG.	FT.	P.	T.P.
Vanvenhoven, f.	9	2	6	20
Peterson, f.	7	3	9	17
Alger, c.	4	5	7	13

Council Defers Action on Plan to Extend Tax Time

Debates Proposal for Installment System at Kaukauna

Kaukauna—The advisability of allowing Kaukauna residents to pay their taxes in coming years in more than one installment was discussed at last night's meeting of the common council. The subject was brought up in a letter signed by Myron L. Day, who cited a similar arrangement now in effect at Menasha as providing greater convenience for the taxpayers. The council withheld action on the proposition until a study of other systems could be made.

Alderman Raymond Nagel of the finance committee objected to the plan at first, saying that the city must have a total of $120,000 by March to pay current expenses, and monthly or even quarterly payments would not provide this.

City Attorney Harry F. McDermott replied that the taxpayers had a right under the law to make their payments as little as $5 the first time and in multiples of ten at other times, but that the arrangement under discussion would apply only to taxes being paid in advance for use in 1939, and would not affect this year's payment. Alderman G. S. Mulholland objected that such advance payments would have to be set into a separate public trust fund, and as such a public fund, would be liable to tax at 11 per cent or more from the state.

Compared to Assessments

City Clerk Lester J. Brenzel said that many Kaukauna citizens would be in favor of the paying of taxes in installments, citing the fact that numerous sewage and other special assessments are paid in that manner.

Alderman T. L. Seggelink objected strongly to distributing the tax payment over the year, saying that the taxpayers could as well put their money month by month in a savings account until the total amount had accumulated.

"Mayor Lewis F. Nelson had the last word on the subject before it was postponed for later consideration, stating that it appeared to him to have considerable merit; 'Most bills are paid monthly,' Nelson said, 'and if this plan were adopted, taxpayers would not have to pay a single large sum at one time. The money paid in advance might be invested in government bonds or other securities and thus produce interest which would pay for any additional expense incurred by more accounts.'

Will Study Procedure

The question of making the newly completed sewage disposal plant self sufficient by assessing Kaukauna residents according to their water consumption also was brought before the council. Action on this matter was postponed until the utilities commission could investigate the procedure of other cities in this regard.

The 1937 report of the public library was presented to the council. A total of $317.60 was reported collected, $138 for rent, $69 for book rent and $46.80 in fines being the larger items.

A letter was read from the state public service commission, stating they had received the council's communication expressing the community interest of Kaukauna in placing wip-wag signals here, and telling that a meeting would be held later to settle the matter.

A letter from Kaukauna residents thanked the council for adding the name "Highway" to the title of the new superhighway 41 running through Kaukauna.

The council was formally notified that the state prohibited the building of a windbreak on the Lake street bridge, the bridge engineer's communication stating that the proposed structure would "mar the paint, hinder snow removal, and cause heavy drifts of snow."

An ordinance was adopted by the council confirming a resolution of last meeting making minor changes in the milk dealers' licenses.

The city attorney was instructed to draw up an ordinance abolishing the park board and placing the park workers under the board of public works.

THE CHARACTERS

Nina impulsively married David, hoping to forget her intense love for her stepfather.

Richard, the charming, well-tailored stepfather, shamelessly talks of love to Nina.

Honey, Nina's gay, plump, youthful mother, is wild about Richard, her newly acquired husband.

David, a bright young auto salesman, adores Nina and strives to make her happy on his small salary.

Chapter 31

A LITTLE TIGHT BUDGETING

NINA was thinking the same old thoughts, all over again. Her terrible, insatiable longing to have Richard for her own... No effort, no reasoning, had been able to curb it. Now perhaps separation might.

Though she knew deep down inside of her that it was the right thing, the hot tears welled up into her brown eyes at the thought of not seeing Richard for five long months.

She put on Button's harness and took him out with her while she did the marketing. She had spent this last day with her mother, and had not got to the stores in the morning. And after she had done the marketing, she started the dinner. And after she had started the dinner, she brushed her hair, and refreshed herself for David.

The thought of the dishes she must wash made her feel angry and rebellious. She decided to ask David to take her to the theater. Dress up, and everything. If ever there was a time when she needed a little diversion, it was now.

But when David came dashing in, with that engaging eagerness of his, it was apparent that he had already made plans.

"You know what we're going to do tonight, sweetheart?... Book-keeping. We're going to do a little tight budgeting, if you can stand it. We're sort of been meandering along gaily, without any definite months."

Council Approves Bill for Deputies At Canning Plant

$476 Represents City's Half-Share for Guard Service

New London—One month's expenses of deputies watching the Hamilton and Sons Canning company strike-bound plant, amounting to $476.86 for the city's half-share, were approved for allowance by the common council at the city hall last night. Waupaca county has agreed to share half the burden with the city.

The mileage and boarding expenses of the out-of-town deputies were questioned by aldermen but finally accepted as more desirable than making the city entirely responsible by substituting local men as deputies. Total board bill for the six men amounted to $94.40 for the month and the chief of police was instructed to make arrangements for meals at less expense.

The total sum of $476.86 represents the entire expense of the six men for the last month, including salaries at 50 cents an hour, transportation from homes at Clintonville and Iola, and necessary meals. Chief Macklin informed the council that the county had agreed to bear the cost of bringing approximately 10 extra deputies into the city Monday morning to aid in delivering the carload of coal into the Hamilton plant. The council allowed expenses for seven special New London police.

Make Appropriation

An appropriation of $11,289 was formally set aside for the WPA park projects with $10,000 of the amount to be supplied by the Hatten donation. A statement was supplied by the Hatten fund trustees expressing their approval of the new park project and applying the $10,000 to the improvement of the Hatten Recreational park.

On motion of Alderman Harry Emans the mayor and clerk were authorized to write to the WPA at Stevens Point requesting that the crew of men at work at the park be split into two shifts to keep men at work steadily and avoid delays between work periods because of completed hours. Jennings said about 48 men were at work at the park now but only about half that number can work on the stone fence at one time.

Robert M. Connelly, city engineer who prepared plans for the originally proposed field house and initiated plans for the stadium, appeared before the council last night to reach an understanding concerning deferred action on his bill for the services. It was explained that the cost of the plans would be payable from the Hatten donation fund which is to finance the work. Walter Schoenrock, local architect, was engaged to draw the plans because he was available to supervise the construction also.

The salaries of the relief department employees was raised in the aggregate about $200 a year since that amount under miscellaneous was cut from the 1936 budget. Effective Jan. 1, the relief director's salary will be advanced from $75 a month to $87 and the bookkeeper will receive $75 monthly.

On recommendation of City Attorney G. H. Putnam a bill for $21 submitted by Andrew Rumeno, city assessor, was allowed and charged to the city's compensation fund. The claim arose when Rumeno suffered the fracture of two ribs when he was jolted in a car while inspecting property as assessor last summer.

The city body authorized the purchase of two used typewriters at a cost of $35 each for use by N. Y. A. youths doing typing for the city. The machine belonging to the police department will be traded in. The typewriters have been rented the past six months at a cost of $3 each per month and the purchase was considered wiser when it was learned this week that the N. Y. A. project would continue another six months.

The council also was officially notified by Attorney Putnam of the filing of the claim of $7,700 against the city in the accidental death of Byron Christian, Jr.

John Sawall, 58, was granted an operators license.

Aldermen Emans complained of a jail-full of transients at the city hall every night and suggested some type of work be found to make the men earn their lodging and discourage them from begging in the city. Mayor Wendlandt appointed Emans, Springmire, Litts and Pieper to work on the suggestion and report at the next meeting of the council.

plan . . . but, as the walrus said, "The time has come!"

Nina repressed a shudder.

Dishes — greasy dishes — and a budget . . . and Richard sailing farther away with every minute that ticked by!

Thirty-Seven Fifty A Week

"Did Honey get off all right, darling? Feeling a touch blue?"

Come here, then, David! Fix that."

But David couldn't fix it; and the whole evening was one long, hideous effort not to cry . . . into the soup; into the dishpan; into the strong box, with the separate compartments, where David put different allotments of his pitiful week's salary . . . It was awful.

The budget went like this: They figured it on a $50-a-week basis—when he made more, they agreed to save the surplus.

Nina had to smile at the thought of what a very thin emergency it would have to be.

"Good idea. Print 'emergency' on this sticker, David. That would make a dear little emergency compartment over there, don't you think?"

"Just—dear!" said David.

Two more new $1 bills, and another battered 50-cent piece, into the dear little compartment at the side.

"Thirty-five dollars a week, then?"

And they both said: "Five dollars a day" in unison.

"I tell you," suggested Nina, "write seven little stickers: 'Mon-
